WEATHER.

Ohio forecast—Warmer, with showers and thunder storms, followed by cooler weather. Winds shifting to westerly.

Lower Michigan—Local showers and thunder storms, followed by cooler. Southerly winds, shifting to westerly.

Local indications for the next 24 hours from 3 p. m.: Rain, followed by clearing and cooler. Southwesterly winds.

The area of low barometer yesterday over Dakota is now central over northwestern Wisconsin. The warm wave in its front is most marked over the lake regions and the upper Ohio valley. This wave of higher temperature will be felt in the New England and middle Atlantic states to-day and to-morrow. The cooler wave has advanced to Minnesota, Nebraska and Colorado and will probably reach Michigan and Missouri by early Friday and late Saturday over the lakes, Ohio valley and Atlantic states.

Rain has fallen during the night in the Mississippi valley north of Cairo, being heavy in eastern Iowa and eastern Minnesota. Showers have continued in Kentucky and Tennessee.

The cyclone announced last night in the Windward islands is probably southwest of St. Thomas and southeast of Hayti and will likely advance westward to Cuba, but its path is not sufficiently well defined to forecast its touching Florida. Information signals will be flown upon the south Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

Chairman Neal Commences His Work.

The Executive Committee To Be Called Together Next Week and the Campaign Pushed.

Columbus, Aug. 20.—Col. James E. Neal chairman of the democratic state executive committee, arrived in the city yesterday and will at once start off the preliminary work incident to the formal opening of the campaign on behalf of the party of the people.

Secretary Cole was here and left for Cleveland. By next week the affairs of the party, so far as the state committee is concerned, will be in excellent shape.

Chairman Neal will only remain a few days at present, but it is his intention to return within a few days to stay. By that time he will probably have his private matters so arranged as to enable him to give personal attention to all future movements.

The chairman announces a meeting of the executive committee for next week and the date will probably be set for Wednesday. The candidates on the state ticket will be invited to attend.

The committee has never been called together and that will be the first session of the body.

It is probable that all matters of a general nature bearing upon the campaign will then be taken up, a policy of procedure outlined and arrangements made for a vigorous and successful canvass of the state.

There are many details in this regard making a meeting necessary, and especially so since the republicans have been at work for weeks, backed by the large sums of money raised from the high protection monopolists, flooding the state with all manner of documents misrepresenting the real condition of affairs in their attempt to mislead the great masses of the people who have had a sufficiency of the high protection policy.

The people of Mahoning county want the gubernatorial candidates as attractions at their fair, beginning Sept. 1. John Maloney, chairman of the democratic state committee, and George Geesman, secretary of the republican committee, arrived here to-day and opened up negotiations with the respective state committees, with a view of securing the services of both Gov. Campbell and Major McKinley in helping to swell the crowd by their presence.

Gov. Campbell has prior engagements for each of the dates covered by the fair, and will not therefore be able to accept the invitation of the Mahoning county people.

The republican committee gave assurance that Major McKinley would attend.

Pilgrims Flock to Treve to See the Holy Coat

And Touch the Hem of the Garment To Be Cured.

The Situation in China Alarming To-Day—The Government Losing Control of the People—Caprivi and William Fall Out.

London, Aug. 20—To-day the queen, accompanied by the Duke of Edinburgh, and the Duke of Connaught, viewed the French fleet in Osborne bay. The spectacle was one of the most magnificent ever seen in English waters, the British squadron of escort, however, furnishing most of the magnificence.

The vessels, both British and French were splendidly decorated, while their armaments were in the best possible order.

Sailors lined the yards and officers in gold lace and brilliant uniforms were conspicuous amid the more sober attire of the rank and file.

Queen Victoria looked brighter and happier than during the Kaiser's visit, perhaps because she had recovered from the slight cold that then troubled her. In military and naval matters Queen Victoria is never perfunctory. She always shows a genuine interest in battalions and battleships, and she made many inquiries as to the French vessels, their commanders and armament, while the Duke of Edinburgh and Duke of Connaught were not less inquisitive.

Owing probably to his being brother-in-law of the Czar, the Duke of Edinburgh received an extra share of French cordiality, a fact which did not escape the attention of the British. In the evening Admiral Gervais and some of his officers will dine with the queen at Osborne.

A dispatch from Treves says that the public exhibition of the holy coat said to have been worn by the Savior was begun to-day. The exhibition was inaugurated with a solemn pontifical service, conducted by the bishop, after which the people of the parish of St. Gangolph, in Treves, opened the series of pilgrim processions.

The coat was in a glass case on the high marble staircase behind the high altar.

A large cross, illuminated by gas, has been erected over the place where the relic is shown and five flags were hoisted on the roof of the cathedral.

A great multitude was in attendance and physicians are overrun with applications for certificates on the part of the pilgrims who wish to touch the garment, with the hope of being cured of disease.

Neither the diocesan authorities nor the great and increasing throng of pilgrims apparently pay any attention to the charges affecting the authenticity of the holy coat.

A Berlin dispatch says there are strong rumors afloat of Caprivi's approaching resignation. The chancellor has for some time been on formal terms with the kaiser, owing to his disapproval of measures that the kaiser approved, and it is said the kaiser is willing that Caprivi should go, but does not wish to drive him away.

The kaiser is gradually reducing the office of chancellor to less importance, it being his purpose to have Prince Henry his chief representative, and to have the prince attend to some of the more important functions now discharged by the chancellor.

It is claimed on behalf of this change that Prince Bismarck, when chancellor, exaggerated the office and assumed duties that belonged to royalty.

The interview between the kaiser and Caprivi on Wednesday is said to have been attended with unusual warmth, although Caprivi immediately went about the business of the empire as though nothing had occurred.

To-day's dispatches from China indicate that the situation is most alarming and that the Chinese government is not able to guarantee the security of foreigners.

GREAT NORTHWESTERN.

Some Methods of Railroad Bookkeeping.

How the Company Builds Tracks and Still Continues to Pay Dividends.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—An expert railroad accountant who resides in New York has made a careful study of the annual report of the Chicago and Northwestern for the fiscal year ending May 31, 1891, which was issued about a week ago and has made some important discoveries which would seem to require explanation on the part of officials of that road.

From a statement furnished from the accountant in question it appears that on the first page of the report the company claims a surplus of "$3,680,563 after payment of charges and out of this dividends amounting to $3,445,804 have been paid."

Turning over a few pages, however, an exdenditure of nearly $4,000,000 is found for "construction and equipment account" with an increase of only 22 miles of road, thus showing a deficit of $109,235 after charges instead of the claimed surplus of $3,680,563.

The money for the payment of dividends, preferred and common, therefore has been borrowed as is proved by the issue of some $7,580,000 additional bonds. This sort of bookkeeping has been going on for some years until the funded debt of the company has reached the sum of $112,570,500.

The New York Central, Lake Shore, Michigan Central, Canada Southern, D. L. & W., and many other roads properly charge all expenditures for betterments and equipment to operating expenses, and the only reason, it is thought, why the Northwestern does not do the same is because if it did there would be nothing for stockholders.

This may be good for present stockholders, but it is sure death for future ones, for no matter what the crops may be no road can stand a yearly drain of $3,000,000 or $4,000,000 more than it takes in.

PASSENGER RATES CUT.

An Eastbound Break Will be Followed by Others.

Cincinnati, Aug. 20—A big rate war has been inaugerated here to New York caused by the Baltimore & Ohio making an excursion rate of $1.50 to Atlantic City, which is less than the rate one way.

The Erie notified the Baltimore & Ohio several days ago that if they did not withdraw the rate immediately a rate of one fare would be made to New York.

The Baltimore & Ohio declined to withdraw the rate and the Erie announced a one-fare round trip rate to New York, effective August 25. The Big Four, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Pennsylvania met the rate to-day. The action of the Baltimore & Ohio, it is alleged, is a direct violation of a trunk line agreement.

The demoralization of rates will probably extend to other points. The western lines, it is reported, have demanded differential rates.

SOLD HIS WHISKERS BY AUCTION.

He Was Married Last Week, But That May Have Nothing to Do With It.

Kansas City, Aug. 20.—Justice J. L. Ganzhorn, who last week deputized a saloonkeeper to marry him to a woman worth a quarter of a million, found the work of his court dull and tedious.

Suddenly he arose and announced in a loud voice that he proposed to sell his snow white beard by auction. A crowd soon gathered, for his office is on one of the principal streets, and his voice could be heard two blocks.

Ganzhorn mounted a table and began the sale. Bidding was spirited for half an hour. Saloonkeeper Tom Davis, who pronounced the marriage ceremony last week, bought the whiskers for $45.50, announcing that he would pay for them when he wanted them delivered.

The justice drew up a bill of sale in legal form, sealed it with his notarial seal and gave it to Davis.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS

To Come Before the Supreme Court.

The McKinley Bill's Legality and Other Matters of Interest To Be Considered.

Washington, Aug. 20.—At the October term of the supreme court there will be several questions of the greatest moment to be decided.

They involve the legality of the most important legislation of the last congress. The court will have before it the validity of the McKinley bill, and incidently the right of congress to pass a protective tariff measure under any circumstance.

The legality of Speaker Reed's quorum counting will also be determined.

There is also a habeas corpus case upon the issue of which practically depends the enforcement of the interstate commerce act, and another involving the right of congress to prohibit the circulation of lottery advertisements through the mails.

All these questions are based mainly on constitutional grounds, and the decisions of the court will require the most profound jurisprudence. The department of justice is busily engaged in preparing arguments for the government in all the cases.

The issue of most general interest is that bearing upon the validity of the McKinley bill. Three suits have been brought by Chicago and New York importers to recover the difference between the duties on goods imported under the McKinley act and the duties they would have had to pay under the tariff of 1883.

The claim is made that the McKinley act is not a law. The strongest argument in support of this claim is the accidental omission of the tobacco rebate section in the enrollment of the bill after it had passed both houses of congress.

The petitioners say that the bill signed by the president is not the one passed by congress. The government will insist that the omission was purely accidental and does not in any event invalidate the bill.

The second argument of the importers is that the reciprocity clause of the act confers upon the president legislative powers in violation of the constitution. The government will hold that such powers are not conferred.

Discretion is only given to levy duties under a previous act or to suspend them in certain contingencies. The third argument of the importers is based on the sugar bounty, which they claim is unconstitutional.

The broad question is raised whether congress has the right to pass a protective tariff measure at all, one which goes beyond the constitutional provision relating to the raising of revenue. The government will hold that the "general welfare" clause of the constitution covers the sugar bounty section as well as the right of congress to levy a protective tariff.

The question of the legality of counting to make a quorum members of either house present and not voting will come up in a case brought under the Dingley shipping act. The constitutionality of the anti-lottery law is involved in two cases from Mobile and New Orleans respectively.

Parties were convicted of mailing newspapers containing lottery advertisements. Their claim is that the act is a restraint upon the freedom of the press and that congress has no right to pass a law impairing the general efficiency of the mails. As will be seen much of the substantial legislation of the last Congress will soon pass review before the supreme court and the issues to be decided are of far-reaching importance.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

Boy Incendiaries Arrested in Cleveland.

Their Special Hobby Was to Touch Off a Lumber Pile Now and Then.

Cleveland, O., August 20.—Ten days ago an incendiary fire was started in the Sturtevant Lumber Co.'s yards.

Yesterday morning the firemen were called to the same place. The watchman saw two boys running away from a burning pile of lumber. He gave chase and caught them.

They were Kazer Mikaldi and Joe Travers, and when taken to the central station they confessed that they had helped start both fires.

They gave the names of their accomplices as Michael Dickey and Frank Twordridge.

The boys are all under 15 years of age and live in the vicinity of the lumber yards.

Their method of procedure was to fill tomato cans with oil-saturated waste and set fire to it at the edge of a lumber pile. All the boys will be prosecuted.

A portable device for posting handbills is driving the paste-pot and hand-brush out of use in Paris.

ANOTHER MALLEY CASE.

Has Marie Reinhart Met Jennie Cramer's Fate.

She Has Been Mysteriously Missing Over a Week.

The Lawyers of the Lady Make Some Damaging Statements Against the Old Man.

New York, Aug. 20.—Mrs. Marie Reinhart, the woman who has brought suit in New Haven against Edward Malley, of that city, charging him with deceiving her under promise of marriage, has mysteriously disappeared.

Her friends in this city and her lawyer, Mr. Charles F. Hamilton, of New Haven, believe that Malley is responsible for her disappearance. The fear is in their minds that she may have met a fate similar to that of poor Jennie Cramer, for whose death Edward Malley's son, Walter, and his nephew, James Malley, were tried.

Either that, they say, or she is a prisoner somewhere at Edward Malley's instance.

It is known that he has been trying to get her into his clutches. It is known that he has had two agents at work with that end in view. Nothing has been seen or heard of her since Tuesday, August 11. It is thought, therefore, that he has succeeded in his purpose.

Mrs. Reinhart's friends say he is a man fully capable of conspiring against the welfare of a woman he had wronged. And that he wronged this woman while she was the governess of the two children of his second wife there is little doubt.

She says he drugged the wine he gave her to drink and that he promised to marry her. He supported her for a time and supported her child until it died.

Then he threw her off, and with an oath declared that he would do nothing more for her.

She left the house of the good woman with whom she had lived for about a year a week ago. She said she was going to a store near by to purchase some hairpins and would return in a few moments.

She had no friends to whom she would go in this country. She had been out alone but two or three times for a month, being fearful that something might happen to her.

Was she seized by Malley's agents, hustled into a carriage and driven away? That is what her friends believe happened to her. She must be restrained, they say, for all her effects are still in the house she left, and in that house also are the only friends she has in America.

She is an Irishwoman by birth, and is now about 38 years old. She came to this country two years ago, and through an advertisement became the governess of Malley's children.

She remained there about six months, leaving him because of a breach of contract. She intended to sue him on this account, but he supported her in this city for some time, and it was not until July last that papers were served in a suit for damages for breach of promise to marry.

After the papers were served Malley came to this city and made her the most generous promises. These he did not keep, and she instructed her lawyer to press the suit, which he was only too willing to do. The papers are returnable in the New Haven court in the second week in September.

The sufferings which this woman has undergone as the result of her meeting with Edward Malley have been terrible. When she was about to become a mother Mally told her to go to a charity hospital. She entered the Sloane Maternity hospital, Fifty-ninth street and Amsterdam avenue, December 10. Nine days later she was forced to leave the institution with her child.

This, in spite of the fact that she was still ill, and that the child was weak and puny. Malley had given her no money, and that night she was compelled to pawn her cloak to procure money to pay for lodgings. She returned the next day to the house where she had boarded before. The landlady did not want to take her again. Malley appeared, and upon his agreeing to pay $9 a week for Mrs. Reinhart and the child they were permitted to remain.

About that time the child was christened by an Episcopalian clergyman as Edward Malley. It died on February 22, and on March 24, while Mrs. Reinhart was sick, Malley came down from New Haven and made the announcement that he would no longer pay her expenses. He had paid all he intended to.

The landlady told him that Mrs. Reinhart was ill in bed and asked him to go up stairs and see her. He refused.

"I don't give a d—n," he said. "Send her to a hospital. I won't pay out any more money."

Mrs. Reinhart, in June, went to New Haven to consult with Lawyer Hamilton about the advisability of a suit. He wrote to Malley telling him that an action was contemplated.

The letter brought Malley to New York to see Mrs. Reinhart, and on that occasion he told her that he would take care of her as long as she lived, and promised to give her $8,000 in cash, furnish a house for her and provide her with a horse and carriage. She agreed to compromise on these terms. He returned to New Haven and in a few days she received a letter from him enclosing an advertisement of a firm in this city for a saleslady. She went to the advertiser and found that an experienced hand was required and that the salary was $6 a week. That is how Malley kept his promise to provide for her.

Evidence of the course Malley then decided to pursue was seen shortly after the papers were served on him on July 6. Whenever the landlady and Mrs. Reinhart went out they were followed. The house was watched for three weeks. The landlady was informed that a man named Samuel Ten Eyck had been sent by Malley to a woman who keeps a fashionable boarding house on Madison avenue, to whom he had offered a large sum of money if she could succeed in compromising Mrs. Reinhart in any way. He wanted her to induce Mrs. Reinhart to go to a drinking saloon with a man. He would manage the rest he said. The offer was indignantly rejected.

Before Mrs. Reinhart's baby was born she had received a small legacy from her father's estate in Ireland. Her sufferings had so affected her mind that she took to liquor. She spent a good deal of the money in the company of Frank Keats, a cab driver, who had been allowed to sleep in the house in which she lived. She loaned him $150 when he was in trouble with the police. She reformed after the birth of her child and refused to see Keats. Soon after the service of the papers on Malley Keats began to write her notes, asking her to meet him. It was suspected that he had been employed by Malley and no attention was paid to them.

She received a piece of paper by a messenger last Tuesday morning which read as follows:

"Mary—Meet me at 1 o'clock, Twenty-sixth street and Madison avenue, and we will have some fun. FRANK.

She made no response to this request, and about 2 o'clock in the afternoon Keats called on her. He urged her to go out with him and said he would pay her the money he owed her. She answered that she believed he was in league with Malley, and that she would have nothing to do with him. They quarreled in the hall and Keats was ordered out by the landlady.

Mrs. Reinhart left the house at 3:30 p. m., saying she was going to a store and would be back in a few minutes. She wore a black dress with a pointed waist and a white sailor hat with a band of red and white squares. That was the last seen of her. She has been searched for without result, and the worst is feared for her.

WOULD NOT KEEP HIS WORD.

Meyer Goldsmith Cut Off From Lucrative Privilege.

New York, Aug. 20.—Meyer Goldsmith, a millionaire exporter of American cattle to Europe, was yesterday suspended from his privileges as a member of the produce exchange by unanimous vote of the board of managers for failure to carry out a contract.

The charge was that he refused to keep a verbal contract made with Charles F. Sumner through his broker, J. B. Smull. The latter refused to testify before the complaint committee, and he will probably be disciplined.

Mr. Goldsmith's refusal to recognize a verbal contract was considered a very grave matter by the board, because millions of dollars in business are annually done on the exchange by word of mouth.

A Policeman Killed.

New York, Aug. 20.—John Schurer, aged 45 years, a special policeman at the Union Hill Schutzen park during the Plattdeutsche fests of the last four days, was shot last evening, and subsequently died.

Several persons were shooting at the butts, and a number of boys crowded near the ranges in dangerous proximity to the targets. Schurer went to drive them away, and while so engaged a bullet struck him in the leg, severing an artery, which caused him to bleed to death before assistance arrived. It is not known who fired the fatal shot.

TO HAVE AN ORGAN.

The Third Party People Forcing the Fight.

The Kansas City Evening Times To Be Moved to Topeka to Grind Out Opinions.

Topeka, Ks., Aug. 20.—A scheme is now on foot which may result in the Kansas City Evening Times being brought to Topeka and made the official organ of the people's party of the state.

Dr. Munford, the owner of the Times, who once owned a controlling interest, and now has an option to purchase back his interest, spent two or three days in the city last week conferring with the board of directors of the new company recently organized for the purpose of running a daily paper here.

It is understood that Dr. Munford is to take the Evening Times for his option and turn the Morning Times over to the other parties interested. One of the members of the company, a man who is in a position to know, said to-day:

"The Times has offered to sell a two-thirds interest in the Evening Times and move everything to Topeka, they to retain a one-third interest. They offer to bring the Evening Times plant, subscription books, good will, and, in fact, everything, and discontinue the evening paper at Kansas City.

"They expect to bring with them the United Press franchise—their present telegraph franchise. This is one advantage in their favor, as there is no such franchise here. The price for which the paper is offered is within our means and should we decide to accept their terms our company will have very little difficulty in raising the money needed.

"Some of our members are opposed to buying it, as it has not the best record, but there are two things decidedly in its favor. In the first place the paper has its plant and everything ready to begin work at once. That would make it possible to start a paper here by October 1, in time to do some very good work during the campaign."

ARE ON THE DEFENSIVE.

What the Government is Doing in the China Case.

If Riots Should Occur Americans Would Be Slaughtered Before Action Could Be Had.

Washington, Aug. 20.—In conversation with Acting Secretary of State Wharton to-day regarding the Chinese situation he said:

"It is a mistake to believe that this government is moving slowly in this matter and that the same energy displayed by France, England and Germany is lacking in the United States. This government has been keeping pace, step for step with those powers in all movements except one for the proper protection of our citizens in China. The one exception is the display of naval equipments. The latter is an impossibility. The United States has but two vessels in Chinese waters, and how can she expect to make a respectable showing with those?"

The navy department has done all in its power and has ordered three vessels from the Pacific to reinforce the skeleton of a squadron along the Asiatic coast.

"Every possible precaution has been taken to protect American interests in China. We have united with the other great powers in making every proper demand from the Chinese government. Our minister, Mr. Denby, received his instructions long ago and every consul within the borders of the empire has his instructions to use all means in his power to preserve the dignity of his government and to protect her citizens.

"What more can be done? We have the promise and assurance of the emperor that our requests shall be granted, and we are sending every vessel that can be spared across the Pacific to assist by its presence in the preservation of peace."

Playing a Lucky Game.

London, Aug. 20.—The Daily News, referring to President Harrison's speech at Albany, says: "The evil effects of the McKinley law are disgusted by the coincidence of good crops in America and bad harvests in Europe. McKinley's adherents will note the position with joy and try to persuade the people, with the usual disregard of connection between cause and effect, that the tariff has not diminished America's external trade. Thus America's opportunity for escaping the immediate effects of her economical mistakes comes up once more."

CONSPIRACY TO ROB.

A Sensation at the Hotel Metropole.

The Employes Had Banded Together and Were Plundering Their Employer.

New York, Aug. 20.—The police late last night broke up a conspiracy among the employes of the hotel Metropole at Broadway and Forty-second street, to rob their employers, and arrested Cashiers Albert Smith and William Stark, and Barkeepers Albert Bosch and Michael Manling. The men confessed their crime and said they had been stealing about $15 a day for some time. Sensational developments are looked for at their arraignment.

The Murderer of Christie Warden in Tight Quarters.

Almost Starved He Has Lived on What He Could Steal.

Being Well Armed He Is Making a Life and Death Struggle Against His Pursuers.

Hanover, N. H., Aug. 20.—Hanover is again wild with excitement. Frank C. Almy, the brutal murderer of Christie Warden, has been located and a crowd of people have gathered and expect soon to lynch the wretch.

Almy was traced to the Warden farm, and is hiding in a hay mow. Mrs. Warden, on Monday evening, while looking for some chickens, found under the barn a number of empty cans and bottles, indicating that some one had been hiding there and subsisting on canned fruits and egetables and beer.

F. W. Davidson and N. A. Frost, who had been told of Mrs. Warden's discovery, made a further search yesterday morning and found more cans and a club. The cans and bottles were identified as having been stolen, with their contents, from the cellars of families in the village.

Last night Prof. Whitcher and Sheriff Brown watched the premises. At 2 a. m. they saw Almy walking about the garden. He was barefooted, ragged, pale and thin. He filled a bag with apples from the trees, eating ravenously at the same time.

He then walked back to the barn and walked around to the other side of it. The watchers returned to the village and aroused about forty men who soon surrounded the building and a search began.

Charles A. Stewart, a student at the state college, was the first to locate Almy. He was prodding the hay with a shovel handle when he struck the body of the concealed man.

Instantly Almy fired through the hay. The bullet missed Stewart. Almy fired again and again, making his way upward through the hay at the same time.

He fired at least fifteen shots, and the barn was quickly deserted.

One of the shots struck and slightly wounded Azro Turner, of Norwich, Vt., a student here. A council of war was held by the men outside the barn as to the best means of continuing the attack upon the outlaw.

As a result of the conference the following were appointed as a committee of procedure: Sheriffs Stevens, of Lancaster, and Clark, of Lebanon, Gen. C. O. Hurlbut, of Lebanon, and ex-Sheriff N. C. Bridgman.

While many favored burning the barn to drive Almy out, the majority were for entering the barn and volunteers for this purpose were called for.

Twenty-two men immediately responded. As the party entered the barn Almy's voice was heard asking that John Fuller be sent to him, as he wished to speak to him.

Ex-Sheriff Bridgman and Fuller went into the loft, and after conversing with Almy, Sheriff Bridgman returned, and mounting a ladder leaning against the house said to the crowd:

"Fellow citizens: Almy has been found. Now I call upon you in the name of law and good order to restrain your anger and let the law take its course with this foul murderer. I say at the request of the county officials, men whom we chose by our votes to act for us—we all have confidence in them."

The crowd finally agreed to let Almy be taken care of by the officers. He had threatened to kill himself and sell his life dearly otherwise. The crowd formed in lines along the road to see Almy brought out.

Skin Grafting

Lima, O., Aug. 20.—Doctors Brooks, Hoover and Collins have just successfully accomplished a remarkable case of skin grafting.

On July 4 William Shaw, a young man employed at the Standard refinery, was terribly scalded with boiling crude oil. His life was despaired of. Dr. Brooks concluded the only thing to do was to graft skin on the body. Eighteen of Shaw's fellow workmen volunteered to furnish the necessary pieces of skin, and the doctors have plastered Shaw with 811 pieces, until he resembles a crazy quilt. He is now out of danger and will soon be able to get around the house.

Fourteenth Ohio.

Painesville, O., Aug. 20.—The sixteenth annual reunion of the Fourteenth Ohio battery was held yesterday at the home of their commander, Capt. J. B. Burrows. The company of over a hundred veterans and friends, after doing justice to an appetizing dinner in the open air, spent a royal afternoon singing war songs and listening to speeches by a number of the orators present.

CONFERRING THE PALLIUM.

Interesting Exercises in Milwaukee To-Day.

No Less Than Seven Hundred Priests and Prelates Witness the Ceremony.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 20.—The conferring of the pallium on Archbishop F. X. Katzer, the successor of the late Archbishop Heiss, took place to-day in the St. Johns' cathedral, of this city. Cardinal Gibbons was the bearer of the vestment, and he conferred it in person. The occasion was given unusual interest by the presence of no less than seven hundred prelates and priests, representing almost every state in the union.

Among the high dignitaries present are the Rt Rev Archbishop W H Elder, Cincinnati; and John Ireland, St Paul; the Rt Rev Bishop John Vertin, Marquette; W O'Hara, Scranton, Pa; W J McCloskey, Louisville, Ky; Thos Bonacum, Lincoln, Neb; M H Burke, Cheyenne, Wyo; H Cosgrove, Davenport, Ia; J B Cotter, Winona, Minn; J L Foley, Detroit, Mich; J J Hennessy, Wichita, Ks; J J Hogan, Kansas City, Mo; J Janssen, Belleville, Ill; J Rademacher, Nashville; J Richter, Grand Rapids, Mich; R Scannel, Omaha, Neb; J S Hanley, Jamestown, N D; J A Watterson, Columbus, O; Otto Zardetti, St Cloud, Minn; Arch Abbott, Andrew Hintenach, St Vincent's Abbey, Pa.

Among the lower clergy are many of the graduates of the St. Francis seminary where Archbishop Katzer was a professor for many years. The people also take a hearty interest in the celebration, for the archbishop enjoys the respect and confidence of the entire community. The ceremonies were surrounded by much pomp. Bishop Bonacum celebrated a pontifical mass, and sermons were preached by Bishop J. A. Watterson, of Columbus, O., and Bishop Richter, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

In the afternoon the clergymen partook of a banquet served in St. Francis, a suburb and a seat of the theological seminary of the province.

CANADIAN CRY OF BOODLE

Both Parties Interested in Quieting Gossip.

The United States Used as a Counter Attraction,

To Draw Attention Away from the Sad State of Public Affairs Existing at the Capitol.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 20.—The liberal organ at the capital publishes what purports to be a dispatch from Washington, setting forth a story that Premier Abbott has sent an emissary to Washington to implore Mr. Blaine, in advance of formal negotiations in October, to assent to a draft treaty of reciprocity in all such articles as are not imported into Canada in large quantities from England, such as coal of all kinds, meats, cattle and other live stock, boots and shoes, leather of all kinds, glass and glassware, agricultural implements, flour and meal, paper and paper manufactures, kerosene oil, carriages and parts of carriages, fish, brass and metal goods, vegetables, fruits of all kinds, hats and caps, rubber goods, fertilizers, earthen and china ware and a number of other important articles.

It was also proposed, according to the story mentioned, that equal privileges be given to American and Canadian grain laden vessels passing down the St. Lawrence canals and to offer American fishermen free access to Canadian waters.

The liberal paper says that since the outrageous breach of confidence perpetrated by Sir John Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper last winter, and the scandalous misrepresentation indulged in by the Canadian tory leaders with respect to the initiation of the informal negotiations then assented to by Mr. Blaine, the British minister has been kept at arm's length both by President Harrison and Mr. Blaine so far as trade negotiations with Canada are concerned, and that the emissary was instructed to call upon Erastus Wiman in New York, apologize to him for all the hard things said about him by the tories during the election campaign, and solicit his good offices in effecting an arrangement with Mr. Blaine.

A reporter called upon Premier Abbott to inquire as to the truth of the story. "You may inform the people," he said, "that no such emissary has been sent to Washington by the government, nor have any advances been made to Erastus Wiman. The story is made out of whole cloth."

A prominent conservative politician said it was believed the wheel thing was "trumped up" by the opposition to distract attention from the Mercier scandal.

The fact is, he added, that the liberals recently wrote to Mr. Wiman, asking him to come over and assist them in thwarting the schemes of the government to secure a treaty of reciprocity with the United States. Mr. Wiman, they say, refused, alleging want of confidence in Sir Richard Cartwright, the liberal leader from Ontario. Their readiness to charge Mr. Wiman with connivance with the tories is alleged by the conservatives to be based on his refusal.

Apart from this side issue, the refusal of the Hon. Thomas McGreevy to appear before the house and answer for his refusal to reply to questions put to him by the Tarte committee considerably complicates matters. His counsel told me this evening Mr. McGreevy would not come to Ottawa. He has determined not to "peach" on his comrades and cannot be forced into a confession. His resignation is in the hands of the speaker, and whether it will be accepted or not makes no difference to him or his counsel.

If the house decides that he cannot resign while the charges are still pending, it will simply open up a new feature of the case, and the whole matter will have to be fought over again.

Lawyer Barwick and Mr. Cockburn, M. P., who are prosecuting the inquiry into the Baie des Chaleurs railway scandal, have returned from Quebec. They say they have secured sufficient evidence to implicate Court Mercier and other liberal politicians in the $100,000 steal, which Pacaud engineered before his flight to Europe. In anticipation of these interesting revelations the committee will sit to-morrow morning in the Senate Chamber, where there is ample accommodation for the large attendance expected.

When the House met this afternoon Mr. McGreevy was not present to answer to the summons to explain why he did not reply to the questions put to him by the "boodle" investigating committee. On motion of Sir John Thompson, seconded by Mr. Bowell, the speaker was instructed to issue his warrant and despatch the Sergeant-at-Arms to Quebec to arrest McGreevy.

AN INHUMAN BRUTE.

Michael O'Hearn Shoots His Daughter in a Fit of Anger.

Mason City, Io., Aug. 20—A fiendish crime has just been committed in Osceola county. Michael O'Hearn had left one of his daughters to keep the pigs out of the garden while he did his work on the farm. He is a man of very violent temper, and when he returned at noon and found that pigs had eaten up some cabbage he was raging with anger, went into the house and began to abuse his daughter. She resisted as long as possible and then, to escape further abuse, started to run to a neighbor's.

At this the inhuman father grabbed a revolver from a shelf and sent a ball through her body, entering just above the hip and coming out at the groin. The girl was picked up and carried into the house. The latest reports are that she is dying. The father is lodged in jail. Should the girl die to-night O'Hearn may be lynched.

Bradstreet's Findings.

Bradstreet's, the leading commercial publication of America, and which is everywhere accepted as reliable authority, says that while the price of wool in the United States is lower than for years, yet the price of foreign wools is higher; thus demolishing one of the chief campaign lies of Mr. McKinley and the brainy editors of republican papers. Which would be the most likely to tell the truth about this matter, Bradstreet's or the "brains" of a bailer plate editor!—Mansfield Shield and Banner.

Democratic Success in Iowa.

Iowa heretofore has been strongly republican. This year we may confidently expect a democratic majority. For the first time since the origin of the republican party the democrats have assumed the aggressive, and the conditions are such as to warrant belief in success.—New York Daily News.

WEAPONS OF THE RUM POWER

Dynamite the Friend of the Whisky Seller.

A Minister Preaches Against the Evil and Gets His Church Blown Up.

Brickenridge, Col., Aug. 20.—One of the most fiendish crimes ever committed here was perpetrated last Tuesday.

Some person put dynamite in the Methodist Episcopal church bell, and the bell and belfry were blown to atoms, endangering the lives of more than one hundred people. The deed is supposed to have been caused by the ill-feeling engendered against the Rev. Mr. Passmore because he wanted the saloons closed on Sunday. If the villain is caught he will be severely dealt with. A cartoon is now in possession of friends that were posted on the Rev. Mr. Passmore's door.

THE STRIKE.

The Situation on the Lake Erie & Western.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 20.—The switchmen's strike on the Peoria & Pekin Union road is seriously affecting public business. Not a freight car has been moved for 24 hours and the situation grows more critical every hour.

There are hundreds of cars of fruit, ice and perishable freight, some of it for dealers in this city, but much of it consigned to other roads.

Some cattle received here have died and the officials opened the cars and let all live stock loose in the yards. Seven roads are affected. Early this morning the Toledo, Peoria & Western, the Big Four and the Lake Erie & Western managed to get an engine, pulling a mail car, out with much difficulty. Passenger trains were sent out over all roads from three to five hours late.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 20.—The Lake Erie & Western strike is still on and not a wheel from Indianapolis to Michigan City and Lafayette to Muncie will move before Friday or Saturday.

General Manager Bradbury, who alone has authority to treat with the strikers, will not arrive here from his eastern trip till to-night. The road will lose $300,000 by the strike, as every car is loaded and can not be moved.

GEORGE THE SLASHER.

He Cuts Up the Dresses of the Girls Who Won't Love Him.

A Peculiar Story, at First Not Believed, but Now Fully Corroborated by Others.

New York, Aug. 20.—Annie Menger, the 16-year-old daughter of Louis Menger, a harness maker, who by hard work has become the owner of a neat frame house, in which he lived at No. 329 Lorimer street, Williamsburg, has given publicity to a strange story.

So peculiar is it that she was grieving over the criticisms her tale had aroused, when a thorough corroboration of her statements came from an unexpected source last night.

While the family was in the back yard last Saturday some one entered the house, stole some jewelry valued at $14 and with a knife slashed 22 dresses belonging to Annie and her mother. Mr. Menger said he believed one George Smith was the vandal, and the story told by Annie was as follows:

She attends the Sunday school of the South Third Street Methodist Episcopal church, and there she met a man, 21 years old, last fall. He was introduced to her by another girl. He seemed to be deeply fascinated, and he wanted Annie to elope with him. He told her parents of this and they refused to let the man see her at home.

He had told her he was George Smith, but she soon learned he was known by other names. Every time she went out she would find that he was watching for her. He told her he loved her and that if she would not marry him he would carry her off in a cab.

Annie was visited by a strange young woman in November last. The stranger said she was Smith's sister, that he was dead and that his last wish was that Annie should look upon his face before he was buried.

After much hesitation and consultation with her parents Annie went to a house in South First street and there she saw what she firmly believes to be the body of Smith.

Strange as it may seem, a month later she met the man, in the flesh on the street. He said he had arisen from the grave because of his love for her, and he frightened her so that she was ill for several days.

Then he wrote love letters to her, telling her that love was stronger than death and that no power in the universe could keep him and her apart.

Finally he told her that the dead man was his brother. For the past two weeks Annie was not permitted to leave the house alone and when the burglary and vandalism were committed last Saturday the family believed they were the work of the my-terious Smith.

Annie's story was laughed at, for no one believed her. She was deeply depressed when a reporter called upon her, but she repeated the queer story substantially as told above.

While I was talking the door bell rang and a jaunty little brunette, with short curly hair of a bronze tint, was ushered in. She was accompanied by two elderly women, whom she introduced as her mother and grandmother, after saying that she was Lottie Schroeder, an actress, and that she was 16 years old.

She was elegantly dressed and in every way the opposite of Annie. But the two girls were soon fast friends, for they soon knew they were the victims of the idiosyncrasies of the same man.

Lottie had read of Annie's trouble, and as she, too, had known a George Smith she called on Annie to compare notes, bringing photographs and letter with her.

She said the Smith she knew had acted with her as he had with Annie, and had cut some of her dresses. Her tormenter, she added, lived at No. 284 Bushwick avenue with his parents until last Saturday, when he was turned out of the house.

He had made desperate love to her, and because she would not marry him he had cut a dress she wore from the waist to the bottom, and had also torn other garments. She lived opposite his house, she said.

Annie recognized the photographs as that of the man she knew as George Smith.

Lottie refused to tell the reporter any more of herself, but I learned that she was the daughter of Harry Schneider, of No. 1265 Brunswick avenue, and that she has sung at Bennett's Casino, at East New York. She had told her neighbors that, because of Smith's annoyance, she was forced to give up the engagement.

THE KEYSTONE METHODS.

The Investigators Are Still at Work.

Lucas' Tin Box Found in the Bank with $50,00 Worth of Paper in It.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 20.—The government experts engaged in examining the assets of the suspended Keystone National bank found a tin box in the bank vault which was supposed to have been the personal property of Gideon W. Marsh, fugitive president of the bank. In the box, in addition to a number of papers and documents the experts found a clearing house due bill issued by the Spring Garden National bank (also suspended) for $25,000, and a draft of the Spring Garden bank on the Chase National bank of New York for $25,000.

Both the due bill and draft are dated February 16, 1886. They have never been canceled. They are similar to those received by John Bardsley from the Keystone bank and upon which his assignee has sued that institution.

While it is highly probable that the due bill and draft were loaned to President Marsh of the Keystone National bank by Francis W. Kennedy, the imprisoned president of the Spring Garden bank, to swell the assets of the former when the bank examiner was expected to look over the books, Receiver Yardley is of the opinion that they can be collected, or at least the Spring Garden bank be compelled to acknowledge the indebtedness represented by them.

The experts refused to disclose what other papers or documents were found in the box, or to say whether or not they were important.

Regarding the $50,000 represented by the draft and due bill they said that so far but little trace of them had been discovered in the books of the bank.

THE NEWS FROM CHILI.

A General Move Against Balmaceda.

Insurgents Massed for a Final Effort.

The Very Bitter Feeling Among the Congressional Party Against the United States Is Increasing.

New York, Aug. 20.—A special cable dispatch to the Herald from Lima, Peru, says advices received from Chili under date of August 11, are to the effect that the juntas, transports and warships, including the Huascar, Abtao, Esmeralda, Amazones, Bio Bio, Almirante, Cochrane and Magallenes, were to have left Caldera on or about August 15, with 10,000 well-armed men.

Their object is either to effect a landing in San Antonia bay and march by land upon the southern stronghold of Balmaceda, or else attempt to engage the forts of Valparaiso. Whatever course is taken by the juntas fleet a fierce fight is expected within a few days.

The feeling of the insurgents against the United States on account of the Itata continues to grow in bitterness. It is beyond their understanding why the vessel should be detained so long in California.

The government forces in and around Santiago number 12,000.

Great interest is naturally manifested in the movement of Balmaceda's new warships Pinto and Errazuriz. It is rumored that attempts will be made to prevent their reaching Chilian waters. Danger may lurk for them in the islands of the straits of Magellan.

IN THE THIRTY-FIRST.

H. L. Stewart's Candidacy for the Senate.

A Young Man of Much Force and Ability—The Contest Lies Between Stewart and Sonerant.

Norwalk, Aug. 20.—(Special)—The Thirty-first senatorial district is attracting considerable attention just now by the animated struggle to capture the senatorial nomination. The situation has several peculiar features, the remarkable canvass being made by H. L. Stewart being most prominent. By the decennial apportionment that district is now represented by Senators Sonerant and Brady, but this fall will only be entitled to one. As neither could claim priority of right to the nomination, this threw the field open to other contestants, who could enter on an equal footing. In Huron county no less than four candidates labored to secure the delegation from that county, among them being Senator Brady and Mr. Stewart. The result showed a practically solid delegation for Mr. Stewart, and the other candidates, in deference to this expression of his popularity, have offered no further opposition. Hence the contest has narrowed down between Mr. Stewart and Mr. Sonerant, each county claiming an equal right to the second term. As the judicial nomination is conceded to Erie county, Judge Mills having as yet no opposition offered, it is urged with much force by Stewart's supporters that it would be manifestly unfair to give both candidates to Erie county when Huron county's claims are in both instances equally good or better. It is also claimed for Mr. Stewart that he is a speaker of great force and eloquence, and his nomination would mean a vigorous canvass of the district in the interest of the party, and the addition of an eloquent champion of democracy in the legislature and in coming campaigns.

Although a comparatively young man, just turning 30, Mr. Stewart has secured for himself a most favorable and independent reputation. Unfortunately his work has been almost entirely performed outside of the district, and his ability is little known and not fully appreciated there. He has been a journalist for over ten years, eight of them as editor of the Experiment News, the democratic organ of Huron county. In that time the republican majority in that county has fallen fully five hundred, and the municipal government of Norwalk wrested from the republican control. In 1887 and 1888, practically unaided, Mr. Stewart made a thorough canvass of the county, speaking in every township, the first thorough canvass ever undertaken in Huron county. In 1889 he was a leading candidate for the senatorial nomination, but although backed by two-thirds of his delegation was set aside for Mr. Brady by reason of his youth. Not offended or discouraged by this, he entered more actively than ever into the campaign following, issuing a daily paper which he distributed free during the campaign at his own expense. He had already attracted much attention as a speaker, and the following year, though absent from the convention, was unanimously tendered the nomination in the Twenty-first congressional district. Though chairman of both central and executive committees in his own county, with a fight unequaled for its bitterness and warmth on his hands, he accepted the nomination, and although hopelessly in the minority, made a plucky fight for the election.

Mr. Stewart was reluctant to enter into the present contest, conceding the first right of his county's support to Senator Brady. However, at the steadfast solicitations of his friends, and finding the contest hopelessly complicated by other candidates, he finally consented to the use of his name, and his friends are confident of his success. In temperament, he is modest and retiring, pleasant and affable to all alike, and a student by nature. As a politician he has always identified himself with the democratic party since his first vote, and always a duntiring and uncompromising advocate of its principles. He is an indefatigable worker, a thorough organizer, and on the platform a brilliant and eloquent speaker. His nomination would not only be a well merited recognition of his ability and past efforts, but would open the way to greater usefulness in wider fields of labor.

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion and preparation, curative power superior to any other article of the kind.

NEWS FROM THE FAR SOUTH.

American Wheat at Callao—Reported Battle.

San Francisco, August 20.—The arrival of the American steamship with a cargo of wheat at Callao was heralded with manifestations of delight by the Peruvians. The warehouses at Callao were empty, no wheat having been received during 25 days preceding the arrival of the Elder, supplies from southern Chili having been entirely cut off by reason of the existing war.

Lima papers espouse the cause of the Chilian insurgents. While affairs in Peru are peaceful, it is stated that the Peruvian army is being armed, in spite of a stipulation signed at the close of the war between Chili and Peru.

At the opening of the Peruvian congress July 28, the president in his message said the government had held aloof from the civil war in Chili, and pains would be taken to adhere to this policy in order to avoid any cause of complaint.

The Chilian Times says rumors are prevalent of an engagement having taken place between some of the insurgents and Balmaceda's troops, and that other expeditions are to be undertaken. Vessels belonging to the insurgent fleet, which it is said appeared off Valparaiso recently, are reported as having returned to the northern provinces. Lieut. Col. Almarzar, commanding a cavalry regiment of Coquimbo, with his squadron and company of the Caupolican battalion attacked in Ballenar, July 10, the forces of the province of Atacama under Ovalle. The revolutionists intrenched themselves in the streets of Ballenar, but Col. Almarzar succeeded in routing them with a loss to the rebels of 100 killed and wounded, three officers and 10 soldiers taken prisoners. The government troops lost two men and one officer and six cavalry men wounded.

LOST $2,600 AND HIS PULPIT.

The Penalty a Preacher Paid for Betraying a Young Woman.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 20.—James M. Eastman has been stripped of his credentials as a minister of the gospel. Formerly he was a preacher of the United Brethren church, but for six years has been a member of the Methodist conference and was stationed last year at Mohawk village.

One of the young women of his flock when he preached in Olmsted Falls lately accused him of betrayal, when she could no longer conceal her condition. He paid her $2,600 to keep his secret, but Presiding Elder Torbet learned of the case and demanded the licenses to preach granted to Eastman by both denominations. Eastman surrendered them without protest. This is equivalent to a church trial and conviction.

EXPENSIVE BIRDS.

Quartet of Prominent Men Arrested for Killing Prairie Chickens.

Danville, Ill., Aug. 20.—Justice W. C. Hollowell has issued warrants for the arrest of J. W. Simmons, superintendent of the Caire division of the Big Four railroad, and Dr. Graves Blackman, of Indianapolis, for killing prairie chickens. E. T. Peck, general superintendent, and A. G. Wells, superintendent of the Peoria division, through their attorney, pleaded guilty, the former to killing three birds and the latter one bird. Their fines and costs aggregated $45. Blackman and Simmons must have been better hunters, as the quartet bagged 22 chickens.

A COAT OF TAR.

Jim Wilson Meets With Summary Justice at Corder, Mo.

Lexington, Mo., Aug. 20.—Jim Wilson, a negro harvest hand from Kansas City, was taken from the calaboose at Corder, 18 miles southeast of here, at 1:30 this morning, given a whipping with a thick leather strap, coated with tar and told at the points of revolvers to forever leave the neighborhood. He had almost frightened a white lady to death by breaking into her room.

A Follower of Reed.

Wapakoneta, Aug. 20.—(Special)—Mr. Lewis G. Davis, the partisan republican clerk of the non-partisan election board of this county, is one of the striking illustrations of how a little brief authority will swell a small head. Although an alleged newspaper man and a correspondent of one or two republican papers he refuses to give the correspondents and reporters for democratic papers access to the minutes or verbal details of the proceedings of the board. As the sessions of the board are closed the arbitrariness of the ruling can be appreciated.

Flour Comes High There.

San Francisco, Aug. 20.—The steamer Geo. Welder arrived this morning from Callao. Capt. Lewis stated that everything was quiet at the latter port, but there was a great demand for wheat and produce, their Chilian supply being cut off. American flour was selling at the rate of $18 per sack, and potatoes brought a high figure.

Exeter, N. H., Aug. 20.—Policeman Thurston, while protecting the foreman of a brickyard from an attack by four Italians, had his skull fractured. The Italians fled to the woods and are being pursued by citizens and police.

HE MAY RECOVER.

The Sad Case of Elliott Roosevelt.

The Brother of the Civil Service Commissioner Confined in a Paris Asylum.

New York, Aug. 20.—The condition of unfortunate Elliott Roosevelt, who is confined to the Chateau Suresnes insane asylum, near Paris, causes much surprise among society people in this city.

It has been known for several years that he indulged too freely in intoxicating liquors, and that he had been guilty of other excesses, but no one supposed that his reason had been undermined in consequence.

Mr. Roosevelt was a member of several clubs in this city. He visited them frequently prior to his departure for Europe. Then his excessive use of strong drink was the cause of considerable trouble, and he was frequently warned of the result which has eventually overtaken him.

It was in to recuperate his shattered nervous system that he went to Paris with his family in July, 1890.

Most of his acquaintances and his immediate family believe that the trouble is only temporary and that he will eventually recover his reason. Members of his family say that since he has been placed in the asylum he has improved rapidly. Civil Service Commissioner Theodore Roosevelt, his brother, believes that with careful nursing and rest it is only a question of time when he will be able to leave the institution cured.

The commission, composed of Dr. Cyrus Edson, Peter B. Olney and Edward V. Loew, who were appointed by Judge O'Brien, of the supreme court, to inquire into Mr. Roosevelt's mental condition will probably wait until Mr. Roosevelt is brought back to this country before beginning its investigation. The commission was appointed upon the application of Theodore Roosevelt and his sister.

Elliott Roosevelt is the third child in the order of birth of Theodore Roosevelt, who founded the Newsboys' home and the Prison Reform association. He is 33 years old. He was in the real estate business with E. H. Ludlow & Co., and after the death of Mr. Ludlow he formed a partnership to conduct a stock brokerage business with James K. Gracie. He married Miss Anna Hall in 1883, and has three children, the eldest of whom is five years and the youngest six months. His fortune is estimated at $200,000.

ALLIANCE DOINGS.

Virginia's Branch Acts on the State Debt.

To Pay Taxes in Money Rather Than in Coupons—Georgia's State Meeting.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 20.—During the session of the Farmers' alliance newspaper reporters were not allowed near the doors leading to the hall of the house of delegates.

It was charged that news had been published of the previous day's proceedings which should not have been published. The chairman of the press committee gave out the following:

Resolved, that we deem it both patriotic and judicious to pay our taxes in money and not in coupons, and we hereby earnestly beseech the taxpayers in the larger cities not to sacrifice our state upon the altar of commercial cupidity.

This was adopted. The committee, to whom was referred so much of President Page's address as treated of the debt, submitted its report to the convention, which was adopted.

This report declares that the alliance fully appreciates the importance of settling the state debt, providing it can be done without in any way increasing the present rate of taxation.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing term: Maj. Mann Page, president; J. B. Beverly, vice president. The offices of secretary and treasurer were combined and J. J. Silvey was elected thereto.

Georgia.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 20.—The state alliance met in annual session here yesterday. Great interest centered in this meeting, as it was understood a fight would be made on President Livingstone. The morning session was devoted to routine work of the organization. The only breeze there was was over an effort on the part of one of the delegates to inject what promised to be a fight on Livingstone, but a resolution indorsing Livingstone was passed with but one dissenting vote.

A resolution providing that no alliance man should vote for any man for speaker of the national house of representatives who is not in full accord with the alliance principles was tabled.

This was intended as a blow at Crisp and it is not believed the resolution will be taken from the table.

Col. Livingstone's re-election is conceded.

NOW THEY'RE MOVING.

The Patriarchs Militant Arriving in Goodly Numbers.

List of Those Registered at Sub-Headquarters.

To-Night's Program—The Parade To-Morrow—Daughters of Rebekah in the Thickest—Notes on the Event.

The morning opened up bright and clear on the Patriarchs Militant camp at Presque Isle. There was a goodly number in camp and no end of fun. This morning saw everything hustling and bustling. New arrivals were numerous, and came trooping in with every boat. The camp was crowded with visitors all day, and many private picnic parties went down to take a hand in the fun.

To-day the members of the Toledo subordinate lodges received the new comers at the depots and looked after the welfare of those already here. The following gentlemen worked energetically on the committee: Henry Neel, J. C. Meissner, M. V. Koehrman, L. Winfield, F. C. Boettcher, J. K. Schmidt, Fred Raitz, John Lang, S. H. Calish, J. Geleerd, C. F. Holden, P. M. Gress, Wm. Frazer, G. W. Humphrey, Henry Bower, J. C. Meissner, John Murphy, H. McLeary, I. Lippert, Thos. Ward, J. Klag, Jr., B. A. Krueger, J. D. Reid, Thos. Dale, O. A. Winfred, W. W. Earl, M. L. Neiman, Fred Yung, W. J. Albrecht, Geo. M. Seltzer, A. W. Boardman, Geo. Hill, F. S. W. Cook, F. Krieger, Geo. Rickets, W. H. Spoor, F. H. Meinen, R. C. Spohn, E. Scott, Wm. Gerloch, H. B. Pomeroy, Owen Blackmore, J. F. Aris, J. M. Ritchie, E. Bateman, R. G. Bacon, Wm. Fraser, John E. Hampton, E. A. Richmond, C. B. Gifford, Caspar Algier, Alex. Antretter, Fred Yung, Fred Dankert, John Tollman, Wm. Stahl, Geo. M. Lauer, Carl Steinmueller, Wm. Konker and Marx Carl.

This morning Commander Whitaker had posted General Orders No. 2 as follows:

"Officers, chevaliers and members of the department band: This is to certify that J. L. Quinn has been appointed by me as special guard at gate with instructions to not permit any officer, chevalier or member of the band to pass out without a pass from these headquarters, same to remain in force during the encampment.

This means that military discipline is being lived up to. The men have a tendency to stay up to the city and absent themselves just when most needed. The above order, which will be strictly enforced, will do away with trouble in this respect.

Commander Whitaker says the only fault he has to find is that the commanders don't report the arrival of their men soon enough on reaching the city. His first general orders, posted this morning, reads: "Cantons, commanders of cantons, bands, unattached field, staff and line officers, also unattached officers and chevaliers must report at headquarters on arrival."

Gen. Whitaker's Staff.

The members of Gen. Whitaker's staff who have arrived up to the present time are Maj. F. W. Weglage, assistant adjutant general, of Dayton; Maj. R. S. Fulton, assistant quartermaster general, of Germantown; Maj. W. S. Bolster, assistant commissary general, of Springfield; Maj. C. F. Ginn, assistant surgeon general, of Springfield; Maj. G. S. J. Browne, chaplain, of Bowling Green; Capt. S. L. Ghaster, aid-de-camp, of Fostoria; Capt. S. A. Showalter, aid-de-camp, of Dayton, and of course Chief of Staff Lieut.-Col. D. C. Hights, of Toledo.

Germantown is Here.

Canton Frank, of Germantown, numbering 35 swords and three officers, under Captain Rott, and accompanied by 10 ladies, arrived last evening and were at once taken to the camp. The boys at once proceeded to celebrate their arrival with music, songs, fireworks and war dances, making things lively about the island until far into the morning. The Germantown men form a crack canton, and will be heard from during the competitive drills.

AT SUB-HEADQUARTERS,

Where the Cantons Report on Arriving.

Business was lively about the sub-headquarters in the city to-day. This morning the visiting cantons were arriving in rapid succession, and all were being cared for at the sub-headquarters until they could be transported to the camp. Captain Jacob Englehardt was in charge, and he was ably assisted by his son, Elmer E. Englehardt, of Grand Canton Lucas, and others of the committee.

The following Cantons arrived this morning besides Germantown and Fostoria which arrived yesterday:

Canton Findlay, No. 39, Captain Kross, 3 officers and 20 swords.

Grand Canton Ohio, Columbus, Captain Inniss, 3 officers and 30 swords.

Canton Van Wert, No. 52, of Van Wert, Captain M. B. Evers, 18 swords.

Canton Call, No. 16, Dayton, Captain A. Britts, 24 swords.

Canton Orion No. 24, Lima, Captain A. B. Skelly and 15 swords.

Canton Perry, No. 38, Sandusky, Capt. Chas. Bauman and 24 swords.

Canton Groby, No. 57, Miamisburg, Captain J. B. Groby.

Cantons from Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Marion, Indiana, besides several from nearer Toledo, are expected this afternoon and this evening.

There are also in camp over 100 chevaliers whose Cantons are not present in a body. These members are being taken care of as well as the others.

WELCOMED TO CAMP.

Some Speech-Making at Camp Whitaker Yesterday. Much Good Feeling Expressed.

The ceremony of welcoming the visiting chevaliers at Camp Whitaker took place yesterday afternoon and served much to increase the fraternal feeling between the Odd Fellows of the city and their visitors. The two Toledo cantons, Fostoria canton and the staff officers assembled at headquarters, and here Col. M. Bartlett delivered a brief address of welcome as follows:

Officers and Chevaliers of the Patriarchs Militant, Brothers and Sisters of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows:

The very pleasant duty has been assigned to me to welcome you to this encampment of our order, and on behalf of the membership of Toledo and of the committee on arrangements, I extend to you a hearty and chevalric welcome to our camp and homes, and the fireside of each and every member. We hope that your stay with us will be pleasant to each one and that the pleasant recollections and many friendships here formed will be green spots in each one's memory to brighten and make glad the future. This encampment is placed on grounds made sacred to the American heart. Here the brave Tecumseh, Red Jacket and others lived and loved their dusky mates. Here on the margin of the sedgy lake they pitched their wigwams, and hunted the bear and deer. Their lives have gone out, and another and a better generation has taken their place, and we are as Odd Fellows for a few days again. Turn back the pages of the book of life to the patriarchs' time—like them we are dwellers in tents. Patriarchs, make this your homes for the present and enjoy the passing time to your heart's content, for a true chevalier presses on, heeding no voice except that of his commander.

Odd Fellows, again I bid you welcome to this, our encampment, to our city, to our homes and to the hearts of our members. And may the smiles of the bright sky shine down on you; may the laughing waters beat their glad refrain on the shores of this isle during your stay; may the Father above send such weather for us all, that we may be benefited by our stay at the first encampment of the department of Ohio.

Gen. Whitaker responded as follows:

Mr. Chairman: It affords me great pleasure to respond to the hearty welcome which has just been extended on behalf of the Odd Fellows and their families of the beautiful city of Toledo by Past Grand Master Bartlett, and I, as department commander of Ohio, I. O. O. F., accept the many kind invitations, and trust that you may have no cause to regret that the encampment has been ordered here. I hope that our coming together will result in great good for the order all over the state. Too much can not be said for the committee of arrangements, who have been untiring in their efforts to so completely arrange for the success of this encampment, and I am quite confident that ere the close of the encampment they will be more than doubly paid for their many hours of hard labor. I trust that we shall ever be remembered by them and that the recollections of this meeting shall be pleasant. I assure you we shall ever bear the kindest recollections of the many hospitalities we have received at your hands, and on next Monday, when this encampment shall have broken up, and we are homeward bound, that we shall carry with us, one and all, the true spirit of our order, friendship, love and truth.

This concluded the ceremony and the meeting dispersed after a general hand shaking.

THE PARADE

Will Take Place To-morrow Morning—The Details.

To-morrow will be a big day up town. The parade will take place and the city will be flooded with visitors. All the railroads will run low rate excursions. The Patriarchs Militant troops will board the Pastime at Preque Isle at 8 a. m. The lodges, encampments, Daughters of Rebekah and all invited organizations will be in readiness by 9:50.

The formation of the column will be as follows: First regiment will form on Erie street, right resting on Jefferson st. Second regiment will form on Jefferson st., right resting on Erie street. Third regiment will form on Huron st., right resting on Jefferson street. Fourth regiment will form on Jefferson st., right resting on the left of Fourth regiment. Formation encampments and subordinate lodges will form on Superior st., with the right of said companies resting on Jefferson st., so as to be able to take up their formation without delay. The line of march will be as follows:

From the corner of Erie and Jefferson—On Erie to Monroe, on Monroe to Summit, on Summit to Walnut, on Walnut to Superior, on Superior to Madison, on Madison to 17th street, on 17th street to Jefferson street on Jefferson to review stand at the corner of Erie and Jefferson, where the parade will be reviewed by Commander Whitaker and mounted officers. The column moves at 10:50 a. m. and the review will take place about 11:50.

Gen. J. W. Greene has been chosen grand marshal of the day, and he has appointed the following aides: J. C. Prentiss, J. C. Messner, Ed. Grossenbecker, J. F. Aris, O. A. Winfrid, Charles Hirssig, and Anton Buescheu.

At 12 o'clock the Patriarchs Militant will return to the island, where in the afternoon the competitive drills will take place.

The judges for the drills will be Col. H. S. Bunker, of the Sixteenth regiment, Capt. W. V. McMaken, of the Cadets, and Capt. Roulet, of the Battery.

Quite a number of crack companies will participate in the drills.

ENCAMPMENT NOTES

Picked Up Here and There Along the Line.

Big crowds are arriving to-day.

Hang out the decorations to-night.

To-morrow's parade will be a fine one.

The camp will break up Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Saturday will be pleasure day, especially to the ladies.

The Lima and Dayton cantons arrived in the city at noon to-day.

Gen. John G. Reeves, of Lancaster, arrived in town this afternoon.

The streets of the camp are lettered, commencing with A at the east end.

Secretary Hulhorst is one of the busiest men to be found. He is a hustler.

The officers' school of instructions was held at the headquarters tent this morning.

Post office has been placed in the General Committee's tent at headquarters.

Evening meetings at the Odd Fellows' temple are largely attended by the visitors.

Commander Whitaker says that there will be 75 mounted officers in the parade to-morrow.

Commander Whitaker is a fine looking man, and appears every inch a military man.

The regular meeting of Robert Blum lodge I. O. O. F. will be held in the city this evening.

Unattached chevaliers on arrival are formed into cantons and officered by unattached officers.

Mrs. Allie Shuler, president of the Assembly of Ohio Daughters of Rebekah, will arrive to-day.

The local committees are making every effort to have the chevaliers form a good opinion of Toledo.

It rained for a minute or two at the camp this morning, but otherwise the weather has been delightful.

The business men are decorating to a considerable extent, and by to-morrow the city will be looking quite gay.

The men rolled out at 6:30 o'clock this morning at the boom of the morning gun, without a single grumble.

Captains of Cantons are ordered to report with commands in full uniform at 6:30 this evening for dress parade.

Some disappointment is expressed at the failure to appear of several cantons which had promised to attend. 'Twas ever thus.

The full program is being carried out to-day as arranged. From now on encampment matters will be run according to schedule.

The headquarters tents at the camp are large, comfortable and airy, and could easily accommodate a hundred people or more.

Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock will occur the exemplification of Rebekah degree by Aurora Lodge, No. 3, D. of R., at Odd Fellows Temple.

Gen. J. C. Underwood and Grand Master A. C. Cable will be unable to be present at the reception at the Presque Isle opera house this evening.

Last evening Cantons Lucas, Imperial, of Toledo, and Sen Han Wood, of Fostoria, participated in a dress parade, which proved very successful.

Three cantons from Detroit will enter the competitive drills. The Junior Hussars of Columbus, a mounted company, finely drilled, will also be present.

There will be a big dress parade and review this evening at 6:30 o'clock under command of Gen. Jas. D. Bell, commander of the Fourth army corps.

To-morrow evening there will be plenty of attraction at the island, with the fireworks, band concert, and specialty performance at the Presque Isle opera house.

Sunday there will be devotional exercises at the Presque Isle opera house, conducted by Brigade Chaplain Rev. Geo. Browne, of Bowling Green, who arrived to-day.

The crack canton Indianapolis of Indiana wil be present and enter the drills to-morrow afternoon. It is said that this canton heads them all in Indiana. They will bring 24 men.

The arrivals were not large on the first two days of the encampment, as to-day and to-morrow special low rate excursions were announced by the railroads causing many to wait.

Benj. Raitz, who was first selected grand marshal of to-morrow's parade, was unable to accept, as he will be out of town on important business. Gen. Greene will prove a worthy successor.

The department band, the Metropolitan Military band, of Dayton, 16 pieces, under the direction of Frank Werkmeister, gave a concert this noon near the headquarters tent. They render some excellent music.

There will be an informal reception at the Presque Isle opera house this evening, tendered to Gen. J. D. Bell, Gen. J. G. Reeves, Grand Patriarch H. M. Innis and members of the grand lodge and encampment of Ohio, also Mrs. Allie Shuler.

Captain McMaken, of the Cadets, was one of the judges selected to pass upon the competitive drills. He is unable to serve, however, and Captain Jacob M. Weir, of Company A, Sixteenth Regiment, O. N. G., has been appointed to fill his place.

Some of the members of Canton Frank, of Germantown, have decked their tent out wigwam-like with feathers and lanterns and posted the following, in large letters: "Red Cloud, White Eagle, and Little Bright Eye." They are the only braves on the island.

Canton Sen Han Wood, of Fostoria, was the first to arrive in camp. The peculiar name does not seem so inappropriate when its derivation is known. The membership of the canton is drawn from Seneca, Hancock and Wood counties, and the name is a contraction of the three.

A big entertainment will be given at the Presque Isle opera house to-morrow evening by Bert St. John, Will Stackhouse, Charles O'Brien, Geo. W. Stevens, George and Gus Leibius, and others. A pleasing specialty performance is on the program, and the Patriarchs Militant will have occasion to sew on a few buttons, for the performance is going to be very funny.

About 25 Daughters of Rebekah remained at their camp last night. There were members from Toledo, Fostoria, Germantown and Genoa. They had a pleasant time. Early in the evening they were serenaded by a string band. The only other incident of importance was when they arose en masse in the wee sma hours to chase out of their camp a man who had strayed in by mistake.

SOME SPICY CURRENT TOPICS

Of Local and Neighborhood Interest.

Notes and Comments on Incidents Occurring Daily—Prepared for Readers Who are Hustled for Time.

New Clover Seed.

The first car load of clover seed of the crop of 1891 was received in Toledo to-day by C. A. King & Co., and purchased by Charles Stager. This little event occurs between these two firms every year.

To Change the Grade of Union Street.

The condemnation suit of the city against Louis Eppstein et al. was filed in the probate court yesterday afternoon. It is an action to change the grade of Union street from John street to Woodruff avenue.

Relieved the County.

When Infirmary Directors Baumbach and Reynolds repaired to the police station this morning to take the four Mack children to the home, they were informed that the children had been taken away by relatives who would care for them. The parents of the children were sent to the works this week for fighting.

His Right Leg Broken.

McGlynn's ambulance was called to the corner of Magnolia and Ontario streets this morning, where Eleroy Spies, who drives a gasoline wagon for Tate, had been kicked by his horse, breaking his right leg just below the knee. He was taken to his home on Indiana avenue. Dr. Hollister set the broken bone and dressed the wound.

Exposition Notes.

G. W. Potter, of Washington, Pa., made two especial entries this morning.

Prof. Squire, of Strausburg, Canada, has taken out an amusement privilege. The professor advertises a musical specialty, in which he plays first and second violin, base viol, cornet and piano at the same time.

A number of local applications have been made for space in the main hall.

A Complete Victory.

Court Lucas, of the Foresters, comes out of the late difficulties unscathed and colors flying. Judge Sala, who had been sent as a delegate before the supreme lodge has returned, and a meeting held last night reported a complete victory.

The supreme lodge endorsed the action of Court Lucas, and reinstated A. W. Albright as chief ranger, which entitles him to the honor of past chief ranger.

The Crescent Club's Officials.

This popular pleasure organization met last evening for the selection of officers, and these were chosen:

President—J. H. Potter.
Vice President—Frank Whartenby.
Secretary—J. H. Hurlbut.
Treasurer—A. H. Kruger.

Messrs. George Raymer, A. H. Kruger, Frank Wharteuby, Charles Hattersby and W. J. Bell were appointed a committee to make arrangements for the club's first party as soon as the season opens.

Republicans Agree to Disagree.

The republican county central committee at its meeting yesterday afternoon decided not to go up against the Baber law, as it would spoil the fun of the boys. It was determined, however, to refer the question to the county convention, which meets September 5.

A motion was sprung at the meeting to select L. W. Morris as temporary chairman for the coming convention, which raised a rumpus. In the midst of the discussion a motion to adjourn was carried.

Wants to Dissolve Partnership.

In common pleas court to-day Ferdinand De Langle filed action against Douglass & Howell and the International Importing company for the dissolution of the firm and the appointment of a receiver.

It seems, by the petition, that the plaintiff and defendants formed a partnership under the firm name of "International Importing company," for the purpose of importing fine horses.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendants have violated certain terms of the contract, under which the partnership was ormed.

Skipped From Montreal.

A Polish Jew giving his name as M Stotzky, applied at the county infirmary office this morning for transportation to Washington, Pa.

The usual inquiries as to his business and from whence he hailed were put, and it was learned that he had been tendered full passage from Montreal, Canada, to the states.

Superintendent Kinkley informed his trampship that in America, people who were able to work, and wouldn't, but preferred to beg, were termed vagrants, and usually were given employment at the "works." The fellow concluded he had wandered into the wrong pew, and immediately took his departure.

Fix Up the Fountains.

Complaint has been made to Humane Officer France that there has been a scarcity of water at the various drinking fountains in the city, and particularly the ones at the postoffice and Steadman monument. A great many teams have suffered for the want of water during the past hot spell.

The street commissioner says that the water is turned on, but the fountains are not large enough and are badly out of repair. The one on Madison street is an eyesore, and looks as if it might fall over at any time. Larger fountains and more of them should be placed at convenient places.

The Smell Was Too Loud.

The atmosphere in the police court room was so close and foul this morning that several persons had to leave, and in the midst of the Deno trial Judge Sala was attacked by a severe headache and compelled to adjourn court until to-morrow morning. The attention of the health officers has been repeatedly called to the existence of certain nuisances in and around the central police building, but to no purpose. The latest fifth is the carcasses of slaughtered animals left to lie to be huddled right at the door of the prison and just under the windows of the court room.

Mrs. Ann Bush, one of the prisoners, was overcome by the closeness of the room, and her trial had to be continued.

AMONG THE PIONEERS.

Maumee Valley Heroes Have a Pleasant Day.

The Twenty-Seventh Annual Festival Largely Attended at Waterville.

Waterville, O., Aug. 20.—(Special)—The Maumee Valley Pioneer association held its Twenty-seventh annual festival at this pleasant village to-day, and the reunion was most successful in every respect.

The Maumee Valley Pioneer association was organized at Toledo, May 7, 1864.

The meeting at which it was created was held at the court house and was presided over by E. D. Potter, Henry Benkett acting as secretary.

From that time to the present the association has maintained its existence although at times it has been threatened.

At one time an effort was made to merge it into the Maumee Valley Monumental association but the attempt was resisted in a vigorous manner and failed.

The reunion to-day was held in Farnsworth's grove, a beautiful place, just outside the village. Free transportation was provided for the visitors by the hospitable inhabitants of Waterville, and long before noon a throng of several hundred had gathered, notwithstanding the threatening skies, to hear the exercises.

At 11 o'clock J. L. Pray called the meeting to order and requested that all men and women who had been in the valley 50 years take seats in the stands.

Quite a number accepted the invitation.

Among the prominent men present were C. C. Young, Liberty Centre; J. L. Pray, Whitehouse; Joel Foote, Wood county; William Whittaker, Frederick Rothenburg, Henry Bordner, William Rinacker, Justin H. Tyler, John C. McLean, Henry county; Dr. Fortney, Toledo; Mark Richardson, Yarnell Rakestraw, Maumee; S. M. Warren, Sylvania; S. D. Carr and Judge Cately, Delta.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Mark Richardson, and after "America" had been beautifully rendered by the choir, the report of the secretary was submitted.

Treasurer Hall also submitted a report showing that he had collected $103; had paid out $47; had a balance of $56 in the treasury.

A committee was then appointed consisting Y. Rakestraw, P. H. Pray, Wm. Van Fleet, Joel Foot and O. W. Ballou, for the purpose of selecting officers for the ensuing year.

The Pioneers were then invited to partake of an elegant dinner which had been prepared for them by the ladies of Waterville.

After dinner the annual address was delivered by Justin H. Taylor of Napoleon.

After passing a resolution thanking the people of Waterville and hearing the report of the committee on new officers, the association adjourned to meet next August.

SHOULD DECLARE FOR WAR.

Heated Debate in the Labor Congress.

English Delegates Do Not Stand by Those from the Other Countries.

Brussels, Aug. 20.—The British delegates to the International Socialist Workmen's congress held a meeting to consider the committee's report presented to the congress in favor of pledging workmen of all countries not to support a candidate for a public office unless he announces himself prepared to advocate reforms for the benefit of labor and the protective legislation demanded by workmen.

The amendment offered by Herr Bebel, providing that candidates must accept the full socialist program, was rejected by the British delegates, who declared themselves labor and not socialist delegates. They adopted a modified resolution to the effect that workmen should exercise their political rights to secure any useful reform.

When the congress reassembled debate was resumed on the committee's report. Mr. Kahan, of America, declared that the committee's report was inadequate. "It is useless," he said, "to beg, cringe and fawn for needful legislation; we must forcibly extort reforms and the abolition of the existing wage system. This congress should declare plainly for a labor war, and an unflinching struggle between labor and capital.

The congress, after a long discussion, passed the resolution virtually as modified by the British delegates, with a provision that there be organized in every country a permanent commission to inquire into the condition of labor. The passing of the resolution was the signal for a scene of wild enthusiasm. After quiet had been restored Mr. Kahan opened the discussion on the attitude of labor toward the Jewish question. He urged that sympathy be extended to the Jews.

The committee having reported in favor of a resolution condemning anti-Semitism as a device of the capitalist and governing classes to divert the socialist movement and sow disunion among working men, several speakers reminded the congress that Jewish bankers and financiers were also great oppressors of labor. Finally a diffuse resolution was passed condemning both anti-Semitism and Jewish financial tyranny.

The impossibility of reconciling conflicting opinions and interests is the keynote of the whole proceedings of the congress, the discussions leading to no practical result.

The English delegates have invited the foreign delegates to attend a fraternal demonstration on the field of Waterloo.

Tug Farragut Sunk.

The tug Farragut which was recently purchased at sheriff sale by Harbormaster Skeldon, is now lying on the bottom in the Lagrange street slip, having sunk last night. The cause for the accident is unknown as it was supposed that the Farragut was water tight and in good condition. Bell is at work raising her with scows.

"The sinking of the tug is a mystery to me," said Captain Skeldon. "She has been working a week and I supposed she was in good shape. The boat was caulked all over after I bought it and didn't leak enough water any night to blow out in the morning. There was no water in her when she was tied up alongside of the Eddy last night, but this morning she was on the bottom. I don't accuse any one but I suspect that her sinking was the result of some crooked work.

Will Inspect the Light Ships.

The light house tender, Dahlia, will arrive at Toledo to-day with Commander Nicol Ludlow aboard. He comes here to inspect the three light ships, built at Craig's ship-yards. The three little steamers are nearly completed and will be sent to Detroit, before the end of the month.

Toledo Grain Shortages.

Dispatches from Toledo say it is difficult to get vessels to go there on account of the frequency of grain shortages out of that port, says the Detroit Free Press. Toledo shippers say there is a fearful amount of carelessness in loading grain cargoes there, as the overruns even overtop the shortages. The losses have told heavily on the canalers and they are now beginning to boycott that port. The schooner C. C. Barnes was 78 bushels short on her last cargo of wheat out of that port. It is understood her captain has refused to pay for the shortage.

Will Tow a Fleet to Buffalo.

The big tug Schenck will leave here to-day with a fleet of grain-laden vessels which she will tow to Buffalo. The fleet consists of the schooners Hallaran, Oliver Mitchell, G. W. Davis, L. S. Hammond, and M. T. Downing. The other two tugs of the White Star Line will be kept exceedingly busy taking care of the business while the Schenck is gone.

A Warning.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Vessel captains should beware of a platform being erected 8,000 feet from shore north-northeast of the Marine hospital and 2,000 feet west of the new Lake View crib. The city authorities announce that the platform will be lighted, but it will probably be by small lamps.

The Lehigh Valley steamer H. E. Packer and the Dunham tug J. H. Hackley were tightly wedged in the draw of the Main street bridge from Tuesday midnight until yesterday noon. The tug had the steamer in tow and as the tug passed through the draw a pile caught in its wheel, holding it as in a grip, and the steamer ran up onto it.

For Range Lights on the Sault.

Washington, Aug. 20.—A letter was received yesterday by the lighthouse board from Col. William Ludlow, in charge of the Lake Superior lighthouse district, asking permission to arrange for the maintenance of range lights along the St. Mary's river.

He thinks this can be done at small expense by paying the owners of land on which lights are located to attend to them and keep them lighted during the season. He is confident that an arrangement of this kind can be made, and that it will be much cheaper than to buy or lease sites. The number of range lights between Lake Superior and Lake Huron is about forty.

Snags.

The Wabash steamer S. C. Reynolds is in.

Capt. Butterfield is laying up his yacht Ida Voight.

The steamer Nebraska arrived this morning for grain.

The steamers Lindsay and Coffinberry left this morning with grain.

The sandsucker Ohio is receiving some repairs in Gilmore's dry dock.

The schooner Benson was brought in by the tug Roy this morning.

The schooners Arthur and Penokee arrived this morning for grain.

The Mecosta, loading coal at the Hocking dock, will probably leave to-night.

Barge 102, which unloaded ore at the Ohio Central is loading coal at the Hocking dock.

The repairs on the Swansea, made necessary by a fire some time since, are nearly completed.

The propellers J. C. Ford and G. J. Boyce have been chartered to carry wheat from Toledo to Buffalo at 2 cents.

On account of the crowd at the Odd Fellows' encampment the steamer Evening Star is making trips to Presque Isle in connection with the Pastime.

The steamer Charlemange Tower Jr., and consort Wadena and the Iron Duke and Iron State arrived this morning to load coal at the Hocking dock.

The tug McRae which brought in the schooner Prussia after coal yesterday, was damaged about $250 worth by fire while coming down the Detroit river.

The tug Uncle Sam, of the White Star line, had a big day's work yesterday for a tug of her size. She took to the lake the steamer Seguin, schooners Kate Kelley, G. Fort, Light Guard and Schiawasse, and brought in the schooner Oliver Mitchell, making three round trips to the lake. Besides this she transferred the Hammond, Walbridge, Light Guard and Schiawasse.

Gen. Poe says in regard to the numerous obstacles in the Saginaw river that he could let a contract at any time to clear out the river without cost to the government, but is quoted as saying lumbermen would claim and carry off logs as soon as they were brought to the surface. This course would render the work unprofitable, and until something is done by congress to provide for doing the work the matter should be allowed to rest.

PENNSYLVANIA'S FEDERATION.

Officers Elected—Coalition Strongly Opposed.

Lancaster, Pa., Aug. 20.—The following officers were elected at yesterday's session of the Federation of Labor:

President, Charles A. Miller of Harrisburg; vice presidents, John H. Driver of Philadelphia, George H. Ulrich of Philadelphia, W. A. Johnson of Punxsutawney; secretary and treasurer, J. S. Johnson of Allegheny.

Chester was selected as the next meeting place.

The federation declared themselves opposed to affiliating with a political party as a body and decided not to recognize the socialists' labor party of the farmers' alliance. After approving the course of the amalgamated association of iron and steel workers the federation adjourned sine die.

THE BOOM FOR GORMAN.

Reported That Hill Is Playing Into His Hands.

A New Combination Sprung on the People Which Is Attracting Much Attention.

St. Louis, Aug. 20.—The Chronicle's New York special says: It has leaked out here that there was a string to Governor D. B. Hill's voluntary announcement that he would not be a candidate for the presidency in 1892.

Cleveland's friends hailed the Hill announcement with joy, as they believed the governor's withdrawal would give the ex-president an undivided New York delegation.

Now this hope has been abruptly dispelled by a report of a secret conference of friends of Governor Hill and Senator Gorman, of Maryland, which was held here a few days ago.

This conference determined that Cleveland could not be chosen to head the national ticket in 1892. Governor Hill was then spoken and declared that Cleveland's nomination meant certain defeat for the democrats and named Senator Gorman as the man who could lead the party on to a glorious victory.

Hill has also assured Gorman's friends that he can have a solid New York delegation.

The Gorman boom is quietly but vigorously worked and clubs are being organized everywhere. Hon. Jefferson Chandler, of St. Louis, who was in New York at the time of the Gorman conference, declared himself in favor of Gorman, saying: "He is the coming man."

THE STRIKE AT FINDLAY.

Yardmen Go Out in Sympathy With Brakemen.

Findlay, O., Aug. 20.—(Special)—The strike on the L. E. & W. road has reached this city. The yard crew here quit work this morning to show their sympathy with the striking brakemen.

The hustling agent, C. C. Chace, organized a temporary crew and got out what loaded cars had to go and shipped them via the C., H. & V. line.

Local passenger trains are still running, but not on schedule time. The men are very confident they will win.

Going to See the Holy Coat.

Berlin, Aug. 20.—The railway officials expect an enormous passenger traffic in and out of Treves next Sunday, and have made preparations to carry 50,000 pilgrims.

The burgomaster of Treves thinks that 800,000 pilgrims will visit the city during the exhibition of the coat. He thinks most of them will bring their own food, so the problem of furnishing provisions for the throng will not be a serious one.

The provost of the cathedral has declined the assistance of the military in keeping order. The exhibition will probably last six weeks. The guard of honor will consist of volunteers from Catholic patrician families and pupils of the priests' seminary.

Irish National League.

Baltimore, Aug. 20.—The convention of the Irish national league of America will be held in Chicago next month instead of in Baltimore as the national council decided upon at its meeting in Cincinnati last April. The change was decided upon owing to complaints of members of the league in the northwest, they claiming they could not go so far away from home as Baltimore.

Railway Postal Clerks' Convention.

St. Louis, August 20.—The first annual meeting of the Railway Postal Clerks' association of the United States opened here yesterday with delegates from eleven divisions of the organization. The principal business to come before the convention will be the consideration of a bill looking to an increase in the salaries of postal clerks.

England's Independence.

Paris, Aug. 20.—The Republique Francaise, commenting upon the visit of the French fleet to England and its cordial reception, attributes the warmth of the greeting to a desire on the part of Great Britain to show her independence of all political ties on the continent. The events in Portsmouth harbor, therefore, have an important political significance, according to the writer.

Bank Wreckers in Custody.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 20.—William Curistian, president O. K. Baldwell, cashier, and W. H. Robinson, director of the wrecked Citizens' bank, of Nevada, Mo., have been arrested and each held in $5,000 bonds.

People's Party Picnic.

Bucyrus, O., Aug. 20.—A people's party picnic was held at the fair grounds yesterday, about a thousand people being in attendance. The meeting was addressed by Col. Davis, of Texas, and Mrs. Anna Diggs.

Will Visit Mt. McGregor.

Bennington, Vt., Aug. 20.—President Harrison spent the night at the residence of Gen. McCullough in North Bennington, and started a 9 o'clock this morning for Saratoga and Mt. McGregor.

Roasted to Death.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 20.—Tom Pace, aged 13, an employe of the Easley Furnace company, fell into a lake of molten slag yesterday afternoon and was roasted to death.

HAS IT BEEN STOLEN?

A Financial Sensation in Hayti.

A Deficit of Two Million Dollars and the Late Cabinet to Be Arraigned.

Port-au-Prince, Aug. 20.—A special commission has been appointed by the national chamber to examine last year's budget.

It is reported that there is a deficit of $2,000,000.

It is proposed to arraign the members of the last cabinet over the matter, especially Firmin and Lechaud. Both of them ask that this be done.

Congressman Mills promises to spend October in Ohio in the interest of the Democratic cause.

President Squire met his first defeat in the county committee meeting yesterday afternoon. He cautioned the boys not to laugh too soon, as he would be on hand at the convention.

At a meeting of Findlay citizens, together with the gas trustees, it was practically decided to raise the price of gas 25 per cent. to all consumers. The proceeds are to be applied to the building of an additional 12-inch main to the field.

Leading democrats of Maine all agree that the tariff question will be specially prominent in the political campaign in that state next year. It is well. The Buckeye democrats will so scotch the snake this year that the Dirigo democrats will find it easy killing next year.

The world's fair directors are to be commended for their decision that one fee only shall be charged for admission to the entire exhibition. This is too big an occasion for side shows to be tolerated, and from first to last it may be hoped the Columbian exposition will not be disgraced by any peanut policies.

The adopted citizen of America, Mr. Sanial, who attends the socialist congress in Brussels to proclaim that "the land of the free and the home of the brave' is in reality a hell" is respectfully requested to remain on the other side of the water, where he can hunt for a heaven to suit him. Along with other regulations of immigration it is to be regretted there is no way of keeping out this scum of Europe, who avail themselves of the privileges to which they were not born only to revile the government which bestows the privileges.

Among the failures of this administration, and their number is legion, the relatively worthless and absolutely misleading work of the census bureau takes no second place. That reckless extravagance is one of its crimes has been asserted and is now proven. The total appropriation of the present census bureau foots up $7,487,500. All of this has been used up except $12,500, and it is now said in Washington that Superintendent Porter will ask the next congress for $2,000,000, which he conceives is necessary to complete his work. It needs no prophet to predict there will be fun when the Fifty-second congress is asked for that sum for this use.

Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt has written an essay on the proper conduct of federal offices, and submitted it to President Harrison with a recommendation that there be a general clearing out of the Baltimore postoffice and marshal's office because "both of these offices were used for the purpose of interfering with or controlling the result of primary elections." Commissioner Roosevelt's childlike faith that the Pecksniffian president desires to see his own pledges of civil service reform carried out is touching, but his apparent ignorance of current events can hardly be believed in. Has not Mr. Roosevelt heard of the change in the New York custom house? Does he not know Collector Erhardt was forced out because he was not a sufficiently pliant tool in the hands of the spoilsmen who will use that office to further Mr. Harrison's political ends? Does he not know all New York is talking over the shameless course of Mr. Harrison's new collector who has left his office to run itself, before he learned the way around the building, and gone to Chemung county to run its primaries?

DOUGLASS' DEFENSE.

In the North American Review for September Ex-Minister Douglass writes of "Hayti and the United States." As may be anticipated the article deals with the events of his ministry, and is the defense of a man who thinks that he has been maligned,and that his conduct of affairs has been perversely misrepresented. To the charge of "sympathy with Hayti," Mr. Douglass pleads guilty, but asserts that it has not interfered with his duty as representative of the United States. The charge that he was not able to grasp the importance to the United States of a naval station in Hayti, and hence was indifferent to its acquisition he answers by asserting that he "comprehended the value of such an acquisition" when some of his critics "were in their petticoats."

Mr. Douglass is sensitively conscious that public opinion holds him responsible for the failure to secure this coaling station, and his protest against this general verdict makes lively and sometimes lurid reading, as when he says:

"The pivotal and fundamental charge made by my accusers is that I wasted a whole year in fruitless negotiations for a coaling-station at the Mole St. Nicolas and allowed favorable opportunities for obtaining it to pass unimproved, so that it was necessary at last for the United States government to take the matter out of my hands and send a special commissioner to Hayti, in the person of Rear-Admiral Gherardi, to negotiate for the Mole. A statement more false than this never dropped from pen or lips. I here and now declare, without hesitation or qualification or fear of contradiction, that there is not one word of truth in this charge."

He washes his hands of responsibility for this failure by asserting that the administration failed to invest him with sufficient authority, and goes back on his friends in this direct fashion:

"I affirm that at no time during the first year of my residence in Hayti was I charged with the duty or invested with any authority by the president of the United States, or by the secretary of state, to negotiate with Hayti for a United States naval station at the Mole St. Nicolas or anywhere else in that country. Where no duty was imposed no duty was neglected. It is not for a diplomat to run before he is sent, especially in matters involving large consequences like those implied in extending our power into a neighboring country."

If Mr. Douglass is to be believed he was not considered capable of carrying out the negotiations concerning Mole St. Nicholas in which all the country supposed he was engaged. Why then did the Jingo secretary of state have such a representative at such a point at such an important time? Was it because President Harrison insisted upon using the place to pay a political debt with, at the expence of the commercial interests of America? Mr. Douglass has not yet said all he has to say and it would be unfair to sum up his defense before its conclusion. So far he has revealed nothing that was unexpected, and nothing that excuses his appointment to Hayti or his failure there.

A LONG-FELT WANT SUPPLIED.

It is current local history that a couple of adventurers who had previously played with the a, b, c's of the newspaper business in three Ohio towns within a twelve-month, dropped down in Toledo several weeks since to give the natives a few points in democratic politics and democratic journalism. They readily found some very excellent citizens whom it has been the pleasure of the Bee to graciously support for office, almost times without number, to return the favor by assisting in showing the natives how to do it.

These amiable and well-disposed citizens have more experience now than they had in June. They now know themselves how it is done when a long-felt want is to be supplied.

Somebody is "holding the sack" to-day while a handy chattel mortgage keeps the substance in the capacious basket of the adventurers who have just completed their fourth experience as Ohio newspaper promoters.

The thing is dead. The poor little duckling quacked an even thirty days and had no more breath. Its mission is ended.

Dear reader, perhaps you are skeptical enough to say it had no mission. There you are mistaken. It had. It was the solemn duty of something or somebody to teach a few people that every time they have a fancied grievance it is not the summit of wisdom to start a newspaper. This defunct little newspaper creature which expired in the agonies of cholera infantum went through the notions of these very excellent citizens like a dose of salts.

We might quote the familiar couplet which interrogatively begins "If so soon," etc., but it is too chestnutty, and has too frequently been applied to such foolish pranks. So, too, we might read the heroes of a month's paper wad racket a curtain lecture on the ethics and courtesy and gratitude of politics, but we shall not. They do not want to hear it.

Still, it is very proper at this time to say that the Bee still buzzes, and will continue to be the best newspaper and the most perpendicular democratic daily journal in Ohio. Every week day in the year, for five full years, the Bee has been consistently and persistently democratic. It is democratic because its proprietors choose to make it so. It is not a supplicant for public patronage to keep it in line. It supports democratic principles because it believes in them, and because the faith of the party is inbred in the director of its political policy. It owes no allegiance to any faction or clique, but supports all democratic candidates who represent good methods and honest intentions. It is a believer in measures, and is never a truckler to any man. Its honey is of the sweetest kind, and there is plenty of it for those who are deserving; and its sting is on dress parade at all times ready for active service.

Within the coming month this plant will be transferred to the magnificent new building erected for its special accommodation. It will have the best newspaper building between New York and Chicago. The building is an ornament to Toledo, as the Bee is a credit to the city of its publication. This newspaper represents the progress of Toledo and the strength of her institutions. It is true-blue democratic, all wool and a big yard wide. It is at peace with the world and wishes everybody well, but it is amply prepared to take care of itself when the disgruntlement of discontent possesses persons who should at all times and under all circumstances be its friends and supporters.

These few words are suggested by the sudden, though not unexpected, demise of the Toledo Daily Democrat.

It is announced that ex-Senator Ingalls "is writing a book of contemporaneous political history." If Ingalls and Gen. Butler will tell all they know in their forthcoming books the country will not need a political campaign to furnish it with lively reading.

Reed Versus McKinley.

Ex-Speaker Reed attacks Blaine's reciprocity schemes. He says "reciprocity is an attempt to carry on commerce by diplomacy." In this expression Reed speaks just what McKinley thinks, only he has the courage to voice his opinion, which McKinley has not. Both Reed and McKinley exerted their utmost to defeat reciprocity. FOSTER AS A FINANCIER.

The Nightmare of the Treasurer Fully Portrayed.

The Immense Crops Giving Him Much Aid.

He Will Be Kept Very Busy in Attracting Attention Away from the Bond Scheme Failure.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Secretary Foster has returned from Cape May Point. He concluded to leave Harrison's great moral show to proceed to New England and New York without him.

As a matter of fact the secretary has his hands full here in Washington. His pet scheme to refund the 4 1-2 per cent. bonds at 2 per cent. is not panning out by any means as favorably as he expected.

He fully anticipates that there will be a scarcity of money in the treasury about the 1st of September, and has to do a great deal of thinking to select a way out of his dilemma.

He still puts on a cheerful face, and insists that his refunding scheme is panning out all right. But whatever denial the secretary may put forth as to the authority of any subordinate officers of the treasury to speak for his feeling regarding the success of his bond extension policy, the fact remains that the existing condition of affairs is a bitter disappointment to every one interested in that policy.

The stoicism with which the secretary now faces the prospect of September 1 is in striking contrast to the enthusiasm with which he entered upon the prosecution of his plan of marking a new era in national credit by reducing interest on the obligations of the United States below the point reached by any of the great powers of the earth, as his who discussed the subject with him at that not very remote time must remember.

Your correspondent recalls with great distinctness an occasion on which Mr. Foster figured out the saving which would be effected by extending all the 4 1-2s at 2 per cent. and using the surplus money in the treasury to buy 4s in the market, and at that time certainly he did not doubt that the entire outstanding issue of 4 1-2s would be presented for extension.

Again it will be recalled that the secretary made a trip to New York for the express purpose of feeling the pulse of the Wall street barons, while the administration councils were divided on the question whether to extend at 2 per cent. or at 1 1-2.

It was on the strength of that visit and of the impression Mr. Foster brought back with him as the fruit of it that the decision in favor of 2 per cent. was made at a cabnet meeting attended by almost every member.

Strong pressure has been brought to bear in favor of the 1 1-2 per cent. rate—the banks of the south and west, where a very large majority of the 4 1-2s deposited to secure circulation were owned, showing a disposition to accept any terms the government thought best, rather than go to the expense and trouble of exchanging these bonds for others of a different denomination.

This offered a decided temptation to a man who, like Foster, is inclined to take a somewhat theatrical view of such matters, and who could see in the drop of every additional half per cent. a bigger boom "for the financial management of the administration."

What was given out at that time as the reason for the final conclusion of the cabinet was an assurance given by the New York bankers who talked with the secretary that the eastern banks would see the treasury safe through its crisis by taking up all bonds it might be desired to extend, providing the interest rate was not reduced below 2 per cent.

Whether any such assurance was really given or whether anyone who assumed to give it was authorized to do so are questions upon which the public is now left to draw its own inferences.

This does not militate, however, against the fact that Mr. Foster himself came back from New York fully imbued with the idea and that he talked of it freely.

Those members of the cabinet who favored the adoption of the 1 1-2 per cent. rate are not probably feeling well justified by the sequel, while Secretary Foster's outward complacency suggests the condition of mind of the dying woman in the story who was resigned because she had to be.

The cloud on the treasury horizon has, however, a streak of sunshine piercing it. While the situation might have been better, it might also have been worse.

Secretary Foster, might for instance, have had two problems instead of one to face at this juncture—the bond problem and the gold problem.

Luckily for him, he is relieved of the latter by the providential interposition of a huge harvest in the west.

The demands for money to move the crops are coming in merrily and it means a replenishment of the gold stores of the treasury. The call for funds is made chiefly upon New York and the bankers there in order to avail themselves of the low rates commanded by the government for shipping money—about one-third or one-fourth what they would have to pay themselves—deposit gold in New York to the credit of the treasury, which in its turn forwards from here the paper equivalent of these deposits to the various points of distribution in the west.

The result of this has been to increase the volume of free gold in the treasury within a very few weeks about $6,000,000.

The movement is still continuing and the government financiers are building high hopes upon it.

The only thing which they can foresee is the depletion of gold in the New York banks themselves, which now seems improbable, as the last statements encourage the belief that the banks are thriftily husbanding their resources.

The necessity for the secretary to consider whether or not he would sell 4 per cent. bonds in order to protect his gold reserve, is, therefore, postponed for a time, leaving his mind free to grapple with the one question of how to conduct his bond operations with the best results for the treasury and the least appearance of admitting the failure of his extension policy.

And that is as much as, under the circumstances, one man ought to have to think about. But Foster has other things to think of and manage. He is the chief director of the renomination campaign of his chief and must pay more attention to political deals than to financial statesmanship.

ANOTHER WILD SCHEME.

Notes to be Issued Backed by Old Plows and Wagons.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 20.—Albert B. Westrupt, from Chicago, editor of the Auditor, held a secret meeting last night with a number of people's party and alliance leaders in regard to a scheme which he desired the alliance people to substitute for the sub-treasury plan.

Mr. Westrupt explained his scheme. To illustrate he said that under it any number of men could associate themselves and put their effects, either real or personal, into a fund, issue notes for any amount, and by giving proper security could force its acceptance in any community.

Dr. McLallin, editor of the Kansas Advocate, in a speech, promised, in behalf of those present, a careful investigation of the theory. One of the men present at the meeting last night said this morning: "We suspected that the meeting was a scheme of the Chicago anarchists to capture the people's party. We gave Westrupt but little encouragement."

CHARLEY FRIEL WINS.

The Toledo Horse Scores a Great Victory

At the Bay View Driving Park Meeting—The Other Races on the Program.

The second day's racing at Bay View park yesterday was full of interesting events. Fully one-third of the three thousand people present were from Toledo, and notwithstanding the excessive heat of the day the Toledoans enjoyed themselves thoroughly. The chief interest centered in the free for all in which Albatross stood first. As predicted by the BEE yesterday the race was between the Galesburg horse and Charley Friel. Mr. Ketcham's horse, to the surprise of many, sold in the field when pools were opened, but after the first heat he became a favorite, and when he won the second it was impossible to get bids against him.

The first event on the program was the two-year-old trot, $200. Dr. Jones' Senator stood well with the betters, but he was not in it with Lascar and Therlow. Therlow won the first heat with Lascar a close second. Vassar it appears followed Senator on the turn and there was a kick. The following is the result of the race:

First race, 2-year old trot, purse $200; best 2 in 3.

Lascs, J H Suthwate, Cleveland	2	1	1
Therlow T Case, Gauntlet, Milan, Mich.	1	2	2
Vassar, Clairview Farm, Detroit	4	3	3
Senator, W W Jones, M D, Toledo	3	4	dis

Time—2:55, 2:53, 2:54½.

The second race was the 2:30 trot for $500. There were 11 entries with seven starters. The Defiance horse was somewhat of a favorite, but in the very first heat he was distanced and dropped out, and Eva followed suit in the second. John D had it much his own way from the beginning, and won the three state heats hands down. The following is the summary:

Second race, 2:30 trot, purse $500, four prizes:

John D, Doyle Bros, Flint, Mich	1	1	1
Little Frank, F G Brainard	3	2	2
Stephen R, R Correll, Bay City	2	3	4
Lee's Pilot, C D Bills, Tecumseh, Mich.	4	3	3
Faith, Valley Farm, Galesburg, Mich.	6	5	5
Eva H, H C Krill, Port Huron	5	dis
Wagnoma, S F Sheily, Defiance	dis

Time—2:31, 2:29½, 2:28½.

When Charley Friel, driven by Mr. Ketcham, his owner, appeared on the track there was a round of applause from the grand stand. Finnigan also received a welcome. It seemed to be the general opinion that Finnigan would give Friel a close shave, but the knowing ones put up their money on Albatross. Friel has been doing no hard work this season, and it was feared that he would not have the staying qualities necessary to win the race. The track was in good shape but extremely dusty. Ivorene made the pole, with Friel second, Albatross third and Finnigan fourth, the others having withdrawn. After the first quarter Friel forged ahead of Ivorene and took the lead. Ivorene fell back to second, and finally to last place, while Albatross had pulled up on even terms with Ketcham's gelding. On the home stretch, however, Friel pulled away from his competitor, and came under the wire amid great excitement, three lengths ahead. Ivorene was distanced and Finnigan in the second became a pole horse. Friel led by three lengths from the quarter stretch and was never headed off. In the third heat Albatross pushed the Toledo horse hard the first half, but Finnigan made a spurt and followed Friel under the wire two lengths ahead of Albatross.

SUMMARY.

Third race—Free-for-all trot and pace, purse $500, three prizes:

Charlie Friel, G H Ketcham, Toledo	1	1	1
Albatross, Kirby & Co, Galesburg	2	2	3
Finnigan, J R Trimble, Port Huron	3	3	2
Ivorene, Shelly Bros, Holcate, O	dis

Time—2:23¾; 2:23; 2:27½.

The races to-day are a 3-year-old trot, $200; 2:25 pace, $500, and a mile run. The Toledo horses represented in the 3-year-old class will be Dr. Newton's Bessy Wilkes and Geo. Ketcham's Nyanza. In the 2:25 pace Dr. Newton's Rolly Wilkes will represent Toledo, while F. B. Niles' Billy M. will do the honors for Toledo in the mile dash.

A wreck on the Michigan Central delayed the incoming special last night for an hour or so.

Dr. F. H. Morrow, the president, is one of the hustlers, and did much to make the races a success.

The track was fearfully dusty, and the feeble attempts that were made to wet it down did not do much good.

Charley Reed made an excellent starter and saw to it that every jockey had a fair start. He gave excellent satisfaction.

John E. Gunckel of the Lake Shore was one of the busiest men on the grounds yesterday looking after the interest of Toledo people.

It is about a half mile from the station to the grounds, and there are vehicles waiting at every train to carry passengers at reasonable prices.

Mr. Patrick Stack and party of friends entertained Toledo acquaintances right royally. Ice was a scarce commodity at the races, but Mr. Stack had a plentiful supply.

To-day and to-morrow the Michigan Central through train, which leaves Toledo at 10:10, will stop at Vienna for the accommodation of those desiring to see the races.

The announcement that the Lake Shore special would wait till after the last race was a pleasant surprise to those who had put up their money on Friel and wished to see the race.

ASTRIDE OF TWO NAGS.

Pennsylvania Republicans' Double-Jointed Platform.

While Indorsing Harrison It Pronounces for Blaine,

And While Gushing Over Reciprocity It, at the Same Time, Indorses What Blaine Calls an Infamous Measure.

Washington, Aug. 20.—"That dream of Quay's in which he seemed to see Blaine coming, appears to be coming true," said a prominent republican official in the treasury department, when he heard that the Harrisburg convention had indorsed Blaine for the presidency.

"At last," he added, "Quay is doing everything he can to make it come true, and it must be admitted that he has been pretty successful in Pennsylvania. I expect when Harrison reads the account of to-day's proceedings at Harrisburg it will remove all the bloom of the reception he is receiving up in Vermont.

"Harrison ought not to blame Mr. Quay, however; he threw the man who elected him overboard and now that man will allow him to slash around and chew up the scenery."

The remarks quoted above represent fairly well the prevailing opinion in Washington regarding the indorsement of Blaine's candidacy by the republican convention of Pennsylvania.

That action is accepted here as meaning that all the factions in Pennsylvania have united for the purpose of securing the next president if possible, and that they are determined that his name shall rhyme with Maine.

The indorsement is attributed, however, to the shrewd work of Quay. It was not a surprise, because it was well understood here that Quay quit the national committee in order that he might be foot loose to boom Blaine, not so much for love of Blaine as through dislike of Harrison.

In this course he is backed by Clarkson, Dudley and a majority of the members of the national committee, perhaps it would not be too much to say of the republican party.

When the news came that the Harrisburg convention had put an indorsement for Blaine for president in the platform, thus driving the nail clear through the board and clinching on the other side a great many republicans were highly gratified.

To those who are feeding at the public crib, however, whose tenure of office might be disturbed if Harrison goes over, the news of the Blaine indorsement is not satisfactory.

Foster, who has been deputed to do the "fine work" in securing his chief's renomination, didn't throw his cap in the air when he heard the news. He has been criticised for talking too much, but when asked for his opinion of the action of the Pennsylvania republicans he had positively nothing to say.

He simply smoked his cigar fiercely for a few seconds, then holding it in his fingers, he meditatively watched the blue smoke curl about its end and float slowly upward and disappear in the atmosphere above.

Perhaps he was thinking that Harrison's chances, like the smoke of his cigar, were being rapidly dissipated by the Blaine breeze. At any rate he suddenly recollected that he was very busy and begged to be excused.

As a whole the Pennsylvania platform is regarded as something decidedly unique in the way of an expression of political creed. It stamps with its approval what it wants as well as what it does not.

It indorses Harrison and pronounces for Blaine. It gushes over reciprocity, the wand by which Mr. Blaine expects to divide the political seas which are engulfing the republican party, and at the same time indorses the McKinley tariff bill, the admitted cause of the tremendous disaster of last fall.

It includes everything. It is a sort of "you pay your money and you take your choice" platform and will serve perhaps the purpose for which its builders designed it—that is it may be "a good enough margin till after election."

SHADOW OF THE GALLOWS

Has Caused Murderer Blair to Weaken.

He Cries Like a Child and He May Make Trouble While Going to the Scaffold.

Columbus, Aug. 20.—At last Edward Blair, the Putnam county murderer whose lease on life is near its end, realizes that every hope is gone, and that he must prepare to meet the worst.

Last night when Blair retired to the death cell, the attendants noticed an almost deathly pallor on his face, and when he spoke to the guards his voice trembled, giving every evidence that he was fast weakening.

During the night Blair cried and moaned. The weeping of the condemned man was so violent that it was heard down stairs. He arose early and came out in the narrow corridor directly in front of the death cage, and his haggard appearance was evidence sufficient of the terrible night of agony he had passed.

Warden Dyer came down about 8 o'clock and had a talk with the doomed man. The warden gave him some cigars and told him to brace up now and be a man. "Do this," said he, "for the sake of your friends. You should not break down, and, besides, you know, Ed," added the warden, "you brought this upon yourself."

"Now," he continued, "if you desire the privilege, I will permit you to go down in the reception room." To this Blair readily assented.

The opinion has been freely ventured that Blair, owing to his present condition, brought about by sleeplessness and great mental strain, will be difficult to get to the gallows. He assured Deputy Warden Porter that they would be deceived in him as he would walk on the plank like a man.

It developed to-day that the brick found in Blair's bed clothing had been carried into the annex by either McCarthy or Fitzgerald. The brick was picked up by one of these men while coming from Catholic services last Sunday and given to Blair as a weapon to be used against the guard.

Blair has prepared a statement which will be given out later. Warden Dyer, who probably has the manuscript in his possession, says it is a most sensational document. The statement was prepared eight months ago before Blair entered the penitentiary, and it was preserved only by accident.

Judge Grant Married.

Akron, O., Aug. 20.—Judge C. R. Grant, one of Akron's ablest members of the bar and foremost citizens, was united in marriage to Miss Ida Schick yesterday. The wedding ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's sister, Mr. H. Drusbal, on Crosby street, by Rev. D. T. Thomas. Mr. and Mrs. Grant left at once for a trip up the lakes.

Killed His Wife.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 20.—Mrs. James Lyons was shot and killed by her husband last night at their home in Pawtucket. The woman had a baby in her arms at the time, and the shots were fired at such close range that the burning powder set fire to the infant's clothes. The murderer was arrested.

Boston License Fees.

Boston, Aug. 20.—The aldermen last night passed an order fixing license fees as follows:

THE ELECTION BOARD

Inspected the Booth and Talked Over Other Matters.

The board of elections met yesterday afternoon and inspected the sample booth which has been erected by Graff M. Acklin on the corner of Jefferson and Tenth streets.

The members expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the structure. The board concluded, however, to take no action in this matter, as the secretary had been informed that Plumbly & Co., of Buffalo, had shipped a booth, and a representative of the firm was on his way to this city to appear before the board. This firm manufactures an iron portable booth.

The secretary submitted the communication from the Cleveland board of elections relative to the purchase of blanks and forms, but no action was taken.

The question of election appliances, boxes, stationery, blanks, etc., was discussed in a general way.

A representative of Zuckriegel & Co., manufacturers of election room furniture, is in the city, with a sample booth. It is portable and made of wood, to be located in any building, consisting simply of the stalls for the making out of tickets.

GUENTHER BACK IN JAIL.

Held for the Murder of His Wife.

Strong Evidence Against the Man—His Reputation Also Against Him.

Dayton, O., Aug. 20.—The preliminary hearing of the charge against Henry Guentner of poisoning his wife Sophia, by mercury, begun Tuesday before Justice Elliff, was concluded last evening, and the prisoner remanded to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

The decision was received by an outburst of applause by the great, sweltering mass of men and women that thronged the court house from the beginning to the close of the trial.

At Guenther's first arrest he was charged with causing his wife's death by arsenic. The autopsy on the dead woman and the chemical analysis showed that all the internal organs were saturated with this deadly agent. But the testimony of the embalmer that the embalming fluid injected into the body distributed arsenic to the several organs raised doubts in favor of the prisoner, and he was discharged.

On his second arrest, for the murder of his wife, mercury was alleged as the poison used. The evidence developed the circumstances attending to show his guilt, or at least influenced the magistrate in his decision. The symptoms that were dominant in Mrs. Guenther's sickness, were reconcilable with those manifest in mercurial poisoning.

It was shown that about the time she took ill Guenther purchased a quantity of white precipitate, which contains mercury, of a druggist in this city. He said that he wanted to use it for "scratches" on a white horse, and preferred that color to the red, so as to avoid discoloration.

The startling bit of evidence, though, was from the chemist also, who, on an analysis of the scrapings of the larnyx, found a quantity of mercury. Its presence there could not be explained by the prisoner or the embalmer. This was the turning point in the inquiry that returned the prisoner to jail.

FOUND A FLOATER.

Unknown Man in the River at Defiance.

He Had Been in the Water Two Weeks and Had Little of This World's Goods.

Defiance, O., Aug. 20.—(Special)—The body of a man was found floating in the river three miles east of this city last evening by a small boy in search of wood. Coroner Westrick was summoned and held an inquest on the remains.

The floater is a stranger about 65 years of age, 5 feet 4 inches in hight, wearing blue coat and vest, white shirt, dark pants and cheap congress shoes, and he had been observed in the vicinity of Independence two weeks ago and had the appearance of an old soldier or sailor and may have been an inmate of some home.

His actions were strange, which would indicate insanity.

His personal effects consisted of a pocket knife, 7 cents, a whetstone and a stubby lead pencil.

He was brought to this city and buried last evening. The coroner thinks he has been in the water about two weeks.

QUITTING OF THE DEMOCRAT.

Died a Natural Death, and Nobody Purchased It.

The demise of the Daily Democrat was a matter of current street talk yesterday and somebody started the silly story that the Bee had absorbed it. Another fairy tale was circulated that the new proprietor of the Bee Job Room had purchased the material. Both stories are absolutely without foundation. The Bee quit the absorbing business when it took in the Post, in 1886.

The Democrat died because there was no reason for its existence and presumably because of no money to longer keep it alive. An offer to sell it to the Bee was respectfully declined, and then it quit.

St. Thomas, West Indies, Aug. 20.—A terrific hurricane swept over Martinique Tuesday night. Every vessel in the harbor at Fort de France was destroyed.

The houses there and St. Pierre on the northwestern side of the island were damaged. Many lives are reported to have been lost.

CONCERNING BONDS.

Some Questions Answered by Secretary Nettleton.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Acting Secretary Nettleton received a letter to-day propounding the following questions:

First—What is the engagement of the government as to the payment of its 4½ per cent. bonds? Are they due on September 1, or simply then redeemable?

Second—If only redeemable at that date, why is the government under any moral or legal obligation, or business necessity of considering them (except at its own convenience, under its option) until they do fall due?

In reply Gen. Nettleton said that the 4½ per cent. bonds are, by their terms, redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after the 1st day of September next. The government, proposes, he said, to continue at 2 per cent. such of these bonds as may be presented by the holders for that purpose, and to pay the remainder, because it is considered undesirable in the public interest to continue paying 4½ per cent. after the date of their redeemability.

The old monarchical families of France are gradually trickling into the receptions of Mme. Carnot, which means the acceptance of the republic.

THE COTTAGE SYSTEM

To Be Utilized at Cleveland Asylum—Mrs. Eyman Elected Matron.

The first meeting of the trustees of the Cleveland asylum for insane, since Dr. Eyman assumed his duties, was held yesterday. Mrs. Eyman was elected as matron, and Dr. F. L. Saylor, of Paulding, was appointed as their assistant physician.

In order to obviate such trouble as occurred under Dr. Chesher, Dr. Eyman issued an order that all moneys for patients should be disbursed through the steward, and this order was approved by resolution.

The Plain Dealer makes the following mention of two important matters discussed:

Dr. Eyman suggested two subjects—the formation of the attendants into classes for the purpose of hearing lectures on minor surgery and upon the subject "What to do in a case of emergency before a doctor can be reached." Such classes are in vogue at the asylums at Kankakee, Ill., and at Buffalo, N. Y., and a resolution was adopted giving the superintendent power to go or send a representative to those institutions to study the system.

The second important subject brought up and discussed was more room for the patients. Last winter the legislature appropriated $35,000 for the purpose of building a wing, but that sum is not sufficient for the purpose. Plans and specifications calling for a much more costly addition were adopted, but the trustees cannot build because they cannot contract a debt to pay which they have no money.

In view of this state of affairs Dr. Eyman suggested that a cottage could be built for the $35,000 appropriated, and Dr. Eyman and J. M. Waterman were appointed a committee to post themselves on that subject and report at the next meeting. The cottage system is the one in use at Toledo, where Dr. Eyman was formerly assistant superintendent, and there the care given patients shows good results. Dr. Eyman's idea is to build the cottage several hundred feet from the main building and have it large enough to shelter about seventy-five convalescent patients, who could then be entirely removed from the disturbance made by the violently insane, which has had a bad effect on the convalescent. At Pontiac, Mich., there are two cottages at each end of the main building of the asylum and the plan is considered a good one. The appropriation is just about large enough to build and equip one cottage, and it is quite likely the directors will thus dispose of the money.

KILLED HIS WIFE.

Terrible Act of a Drunken Man.

Crazed with Drink He Fires Both Barrels of a Shot Gun with Fatal Effect.

Mt. Gilead, O., Aug. 20.—Tuesday night A. L. Gano, more familiarly known as "Ren" Gano, went to a dance at Westfield.

Returning to his home at Fulton, a small village seven miles south of this place, about 2 o'clock Wednesday morning with a terrible jag on, he demanded admission to his wife's room, which she refused.

He then broke in the door and tried to choke her. She evaded him and fled, but he caught up a shotgun and discharged the contents of both barrels into her body just below the heart, killing her.

Gano was arrested and brought to this place, where he will have a preliminary hearing.

Smothered in a Wheat Bin.

Fostoria, August 20—Otis Peters, of Arcadia, thirteen years old, son of James Peters, was killed at Arcadia. He jumped into a wheat bin from which the wheat was being drawn, and was sucked down and smothered before he could be rescued. When taken out it was found that the pressure had imbedded grains of wheat deeply into his flesh.

Beating the Egg Tariff.

The Tombstone Protector says: Since the duty on eggs has been the rule, many devices have been thought of for manufacturing them. The idea of a Nogales man is, however, the only feasible scheme up to date. His proposition is to feed hens on the cheap grain of Mexico and have them lay in the United States. For this purpose a long building will be placed on the line, half in Mexico and half in the United States. They will feed and water in the Mexican end, and when they want to lay, they go to the further end of the building and in that way escape paying the duty. The projector of that enterprise came from Maine.

PATH THROUGH THE CLOVER.

We strayed together where the path
Goes winding through the clover,
And 'cross the soft, sweet orchard grass
Where apple boughs hang over.
We watched the waving of the hay,
All ready for the mowing,
We saw the blueness of the sky,
And felt the fresh winds blowing,
And to our light, free hearts the day
Was glad as glad could be;
And nothing jarred of fair or bright
For Margaret or me.

But at the brook our ways diverged,
Mine up the hillside leading,
And hers across the gentle slopes
Where peaceful flocks were feeding.
In slight uncertainty we stood,
We thought not of dividing,
While each the other's doubting steps
Rebuked with playful chiding.
In mood half vexed, half laughing, we
Could never quite agree
If I should cross the field with her,
Or she the hills with me.

At last we took our separate ways,
Our hearts with anger burning;
Each longed to call the other back,
But scorned to think of turning.
Ah me, full well I see it right
The oman clear before us,
We had less lightly held the faith
No future can restore us;
Assigned to think how better far
For both of us 'twould be
If I had crossed the fields with her,
Or she the hills with me.

A few minutes later these were replaced by brilliant jets or filaments.

OVER THE RIVER.

Republicans Tired of Being "Led by the Nose,"

And Propose to Secure the Nomination of Some of Their Number This Fall.

As a factor, in local republican politics, the Sixth ward proposes "to be in it" at the next election. Already Jake Englehardt has caused flaming announcement of his candidacy to be made in the East Side paper (paid for at the regular rates) for a re-nomination for county commissioner; but it will not do him much good, there being a wide spread feeling on the East Side, and particularly in Oregon township, that any change is preferable to giving "Jake" a second term; again emisaries from Richfield, Sylvania, Spencer and other townships were on the principal street in East Toledo, "where politicians most do congregate," all day yesterday for the purpose of trying to find a suitable man to put up in convention against Jake Englehardt.

James C. Messer was approached, but declined to be considered a candidate for that office; in fact, Mr. Messer is reported to have said, in view of the fact that he has twice been elected representative, "I am not going to seek a re-nomination for representative; but, if the republicans of Lucas county renominate and elect me of their own volition I will serve them, but will take no steps to secure either the nomination or election."

In view of the established rule of the republican party of Ohio against a "third term," and the further fact that the East Side is entitled to one of the representatives, it is probable that the candidate from that section of the county for representative will be Mr. Chris Schneider, the well known gardner of Oregon township; if so, while it is within the limit of possibility for the democrats to elect every representative, and other county offices, Mr. Schneider would be the strongest candidate that his party could select.

To revert to the commissionership, in the face of Mr. Messer's refusal, the embassadors from the out-lying townships proposed the taking up of Mr. Walter C. Ely, of the auditor's office; but Mr. Ely positively declined the honor; then the name of Mr. John Lenderson, of Richfield Centre, was considered, and if he would consent to run it was thought the entire vote of the county, outside of the city, would go to him on the first ballot. Mr. Lenderson has not signified his disposition to acquiesce, but from his interest in having the nomination come from the East Side, it is surmised that he would use his influence to secure the nomination of Mr. Sullman Brown, a man of sterling character and one who could not only solidify the entire vote of the county; but, as opposed to Jake Englehardt, would receive a majority of the strength of the city delegations. In other offices the Sixth ward is not going to be "led by the nose" by men whom its republican votes aided to power and place. There is a general feeling "over the river" that other officers, even though they be democrats, would more efficiently serve the public interest than the great majority of the prominent republican officials now in office, if only on their first term. There has been so much of autocrasy in the official and personal make up of Lucas county republican officers within the last two or three years that the people are tiring of it, and the Sixth ward will do its duty in the interest of a change for the better.

THE POLICE BOARD.

Matters Disposed of at Last Night's Meeting.

The board of police commissioners met last evening, with all members present.

Mayor Emmick presented a communication from the city prison fund committee asking for a loan from the sanitary fund, which was refused, on the ground that the police fund was too low now.

Dr. Fisher made his report for the two weeks ending August 15, and reported 2,345 houses inspected and 263 nuisances ordered abated; 64 special complaints were filed at the health office and 43 ordered discontinued; 53 deaths from all causes were reported, which is a lower rate than has been the case for some time.

Dr. Fisher also called the attention of the board to the condition of the pond of stagnant water out on lower Summit street, and stated that the health of the city depended on the prompt action of the board in the matter. The property is leased by the Ann Arbor and Northwestern railroad companies.

The board gave the health officer power to take the required steps to have the nuisance abated.

The mayor stated that something must be done relative to the continued blockading of Summit street between the two transfer stations, and suggested that two men from the sanitary force be kept there on duty for a short time each day to keep the teams and cars moving in good order.

A motion was adopted to carry out the mayor's suggestion. The business men will be asked to see that, as far as convenient, their teamsters would use Water or St. Clair streets.

A communication from A. E. Lang was read, which called the attention of the board to the way in which the police acted at the lower Summit car barns during the recent strike, and asked for an investigation. The police are charged with having failed to protect the street car company's property. The matter was laid over for two weeks, and at the next meeting, Sergeant Scott, who had charge of the detailed force on that morning, and Mr. Lang, who made the complaint, will be called to explain.

The board sustained the charges against Patrolmen Goulden, Schiwikoski, and Kinney.

Patrolman Kinney handed in his resignation, which was accepted, and Goulden and Schiwikoski were discharged, the former for drunkenness and Schiwikoski for failure to do his duty.

Supernumeries Daily and Hiende were advanced to the rank of patrolmen, and the board proceeded, after a recess of 10 minutes, to fill the three vacancies. William Lang, of the Fifth ward; W. A. Farley, of the Sixth, and Valentine Kujawa, of the Eighth ward, were the ones elected to fill the vacancies.

Avoid the Danger.

The danger of the public from the indiscriminate uss of the many lime and alum baking powders of commerce has been so fully exposed that everybody desires to avoid them. As "forewarned is forearmed," housekeepers will thank us for apprising them of the special efforts at present being make to dispose of such powders in this vicinity.

The proprietors of some of these impure powders are now going from house to house, trying by means of a trick, or so-called test with heat and water, to show that their article is better than the one found in use in the house, the object being, of course, to supply their own goods in place of those which housekeepers have for so many years relied upon to puff up the morning biscuit, and to make the light, palatable and wholesome roll, cake and pastry.

The housekeeper will do well to be on her guard against these baking powder tramps. Every intelligent person knows that any goods peddled from house to house in this manner or that are given away in samples or sought to be introduced by secretly traducing the character of other goods well known to be pure and reliable, have no merits of their own, and have failed to find purchasers through legitimate means.

Held for Ransom.

Prize Fighters in Jail.

Findlay, Aug. 20.—(Special)—Two local pugilists named Patrick Kane and Ben Davis, employed at the Findlay rolling mill, with a large number of admirers, hied away to the vicinity of the quiet village of Van Buren yesterday morning and indulged in a mill.

Twenty hard fought rounds were fought, after which the fight was declared a draw. A purse of $50 was put up by the friends of both parties.

The police got onto the affair and arrested both participants. Considerable excitement was caused over the affair.

HON. M. D. HARTER.

His Answer to Questions Propounded by

M. O. Waggoner, Esq., Pertaining to Current Political Topics—Favors Free Coinage.

A few days ago M. O. Waggoner, Esq., of this city, addressed a letter to Hon. Michael D. Harter, of Mansfield, congressman-elect to the fifty-second congress, in which he propounded to him a series of questions upon the current economic topics.

Mr. Harter sends the following reply:

M. O. Waggoner, esq., Toledo, O.

I thank you for "Common Sense Questions," and will value anything else from your pen. I still hope to see you on the side of the whole people and against the class legislation of the silver ring. I say, I "hope," I know I shall, for no man ever saw truth so clearly as you do from one side without getting acquainted with it from the other. We do not care a pickyune who owns gold or silver, but demand that no legislation which will drive either out of general circulation shall be adopted, no matter who holds the lash or drives the congressmen. We are as much opposed to giving the present gold dollar coinage a legal tender value of $1.33 as we are to giving a 75 cent silver piece a legal tender value of $1. There is no more sense in making anybody pay the silver ring $1 for its 75 cents worth of product than there would be to pay the farmer $2 for his 30 cent potatoes this year. One party claims his silver was worth $1 in 1797 and in 1834, and $1.03 in 1873, while the other contends that his potatoes sold for $2 within ten years. I cannot write you fully, nor would you have time to read; but put a pin in it and remember I predict that you will be for the people and against the silver ring just as you are and have been a pillar of strength on the tariff. Free coinage? Yes, I favor it. Unlimited coinage? Yes, I favor it, too. Of both silver and gold? Yes, but the wage earner and all other citizens must be just as free and precisely as unlimited, and I would keep them free by taking away the legal tender quality of all money coined hereafter. By this plan our silver ring friends would get all they are entitled to from those who use their stuff—its intrinsic value. Gold owners would get the same—all would have equal rights. On the above terms you ought to join me; but really there is a far better way out.

With great respect, yours sincerely,

MICHAEL D. HARTER.

ODD THOUGHTS AT ODD TIMES.

It is an odd family that does not take a newspaper at this age and stage of the world. It sheds a gleam of intelligence around; it is a communicant of all important events, a never-failing source of amusement and has an inexhaustible supply of instruction. The man who neglects to read the papers is deficient in the duties of a good citizen.

It is odd that no word can be found in the dictionary to rhyme with silver.

It is odd that nine-tenths of the letters you receive are signed "Yours truly." These are the favored words, and yet how devoid of meaning and how commonplace.

It is odd that we do not meet in the walks of life more characters whose minds are not influenced by the narrow rules of the policy of life. Public opinion is a mighty ruler and men will be anything—sober or profligate—homely or ostentatious—merry or grave—rather than be wondered or laughed at.

It is the Odd Fellows that are making merry at Presque Isle this week, and welcome they are. The principles of Odd Fellowship are eternal, and great are the benefits derived from the organization.

A Sabbath spent on the lakes, when everything is grand and lovely, is most refreshing. There is something in the surrounding scenery to open the soul to sacred communion with thoughts of the spiritual world. Nearly every Sabbath our steamers are patronized by a good class of people with this purpose in view; but, odd to say, there is another class who avail themselves of these delightful trips, who have been differently educated, and under the influence of associations quite dissimilar to those of the better class, they choose to while away the time by carousing and creating confusion worse confounded. That these hilarious people have a right to patronize the boats is not denied, but that they should be made to respect the rights of the more peacefully inclined is demanded, and law and order, where human life is at stake, should be enforced.

Old Time Telegraphers.

Washington, Aug. 20.—The old time Telegraphers' association met in annual session yesterday.

President Maynard read his annual address, dwelling upon the fact that Washington was particularly appropriate for the gathering, as the birthplace of the telegraph. He referred to the distinguished men who had their early training in the school of the telegraph. Those who had passed away in the past year were touchingly referred to.

Secretary Dealy read the minutes of the last meeting.

C. M. Heaton, sr., of Washington, was unanimously elected a member by a rising vote. Mr. Heaton is 87 years of age, and has in his possession the original set of instruments used by him in 1848.

Twelve new members were elected. Reports of officers were then read and approved.

Steam Navigation Board.

New York, Aug. 20.—The national board of steam navigation finished its session and elected as officers for the ensuing year: President, C. W. Woolsey, of New York; first vice president, D. B. Wood, New Orleans; second vice president, F. A. Churchman, Philadelphia; treasurer, Addison Lyle, Pittsburg; secretary, J. W. Bryant, New Orleans. The executive committee was instructed to investigate the report that the Monongahela river was controlled by an improvement company to the detriment of commerce.

TOLEDO, O., August 6, 1891.

THE COMMITTEE ON WAYS AND MEANS of the common council of the city of Toledo, Ohio, and the undersigned, invite sealed proposals at this office, to

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1891,

Said improvement bonds are issued pursuant to section 2704 to 2707 of the Revised Statutes of the state of Ohio, and also under an ordinance of the common council of the city of Toledo, Ohio, to provide for the issue of improvement bonds to pay the cost and expense of the improvement of Ontario street, from Cherry street to Orange street,—passed July 27, 1891.

The denomination of these bonds will be first payment one bond of $165 45, and thereafter one of $165 each payment.

The said bonds will be sold at not less than par and accrued interest to the highest bidder.

When the bids have been examined, and the award made accordingly to Law, all moneys or checks deposited as guarantees shall be returned to the depositor, or held by the city auditor subject to his call, except that of the successful bidder, which shall be held and considered, and accepted as part payment of the bonds so awarded or sold, but should there be any repudiation of the contract or agreement, or refusal to accept and pay for the Bonds so sold, then and in that case the deposit shall be forfeited to the city of Toledo, and shall become the property of said City, in compensation for loss and expenses attending the sale of said Bonds and as liquidated damages for repudiation of bid. And no bid will be received if not accompanied by money or check as aforesaid.

TOLEDO REAL ESTATE.

Another Quiet Week Among the Dealers.

Last Week's Building Association Meeting

As Seen by Secretary Hiett—The Annexation Problem—Frank Losee's Discovery at Niagara Falls—Notes.

Real estate is just as quiet as ever, and so is the weather just as hot. There is little or no activity, small lots being about the only property moving.

There is no demand for property, and dealers are keeping cool and figuring on prospects. Money matters are easing up as the crops begin to move. Everything looks lovely for big business this fall.

Bright Prospects.

"I believe there is going to be livelier times this fall and winter in every commercial pursuit, than Toledo has experienced for years," remarked E. Embick the other day, "and the farmer is coming in for a lion's share of the profits at that.

"We never had such crops. Everything is unusually big—wheat averaging 30 bushels to the acre, and the oats and corn crop just as heavy in proportion. Then to crown all there is going to be a foreign demand for all the grain that can be exported. The grain market is away up, which of course will decline to a certain extent, but then it is firm and bids fair to hold out, and there is no reason why it shouldn't. When the farmer prospers everybody prospers with him. When he has big crops and prices mortgages and other indebtedness is met, and money is loose generally. You mark my word, there will be a good demand for real estate this fall, as well as lively business everywhere."

Annexation.

The annexation of the various suberbs to the city proper has caused general comment pro and con, and real estate dealers are just as much interested in the proposed action as anybody. A great many of them have something at stake and have good reason for manifesting interest.

Annexation will benefit both the city and suburbs thus affected, alike. On one hand it will increase the tax duplicate and valuation of the city and population as well, but on the other hand the gain will be more than expended in extra improvements, which such a step would necessitate.

With the suburbs annexed the rates of taxation will be slightly increased, but this will be more than counterbalanced by the increase in the value of the property, to say nothing of fire protection and other conveniences and improvements.

Irving B. Hiett, in conversation with a BEE on the subject, said: "The suburbs should be annexed by all means. As far as my own personal interests are concerned, I am not exactly in favor of it, as I have, perhaps, a hundred acres of land that will be brought in by the operation. Of course the property would not cut much of a figure on the market located outside of the city, but I am not just ready to have the property taken in. Nevertheless I would never oppose the measure, because I think it will be best for the suburbs, as they most certainly need fire protection and water service, as well as the other improvements. No, I don't know as there would be any perceptible change in real estate business, excepting that perhaps there would be a little heavier movement of this kind of property."

A Gigantic Scheme.

Mr. F. B. Losee has returned from an extended trip through the eastern states. Of course he visited Niagara Falls, and while there looked into the new enterprise set on foot to make the big falls earn its own living.

"Niagara Falls is booming just now," remarked Mr. Losee to a BEE. "Not that they are not always booming, but I mean from a pecuniary point of view. I tell you that scheme is to put that wild rushing torrent into harness and regulate it to human control, is a most gigantic one, and to look on the seething mass as it rushes by, would convince you that such an undertaking would be an abject failure, but if Yankee ingenuity and engineering with plenty of money don't accomplish the end sought I miss my guess.

"A corporation has been formed for this purpose and the Vanderbilts are in it, so you may know there is plenty of money back of the adventure.

"The scheme is to run a tunnel under the town, starting at the rapids above the falls and extending it to a point just below Prospect Point. The water that rushes through this tunnel will be utilized as a motive power. This power is playing a great part in Edison's latest discovery of deriving heat from electricity. If this power proves a success, Buffalo and other surrounding cities will be supplied with heat and light by this new process. It has not been made known to the world yet, but the principal points have been fully developed, and startling results may be expected.

The water power will be distributed to manufacturers near the falls. The company has purchased 3,000 acres of land in the immediate locality which is going to be sub-divided, platted and improved. The projectors claim that they can furnish the cheapest power on earth, not excepting natural, where it has to be piped."

"After the big falls have been thoroughly broken to the harness, cheap power will be the inducement extended to secure manufactories."

"How will this power be transmitted?"

"That has not been made known yet. The main object is to promote Edison's latest discovery. The plans were submitted to the company and those interested were satisfied to such an extent that they were willing to invest immense sums of money to further the project."

The Building Association's Annual.

"Yes," said Mr. Hiett in reply to the BEE's question concerning the building association convention at Cincinnati, "it was the best annual meeting the state league has ever held. It was not only enjoyable because of the excellent treatment of delegates by the Cincinnati Building association men, but it was valuable to building association interests. There were several valuable papers read, but the most interesting discussions were those touching the points of the lately enacted building association law. After a trial of a few months the law is looked upon as with much favor, and the more the law was discussed the more it was appreciated. Its restrictive measures insure such sound business methods in conducting the association throughout the state that there is no longer any fear of the business becoming disreputable, but on the other hand the building association men throughout the state are congratulating themselves that a safe conduct of the business is practically insured.

"The state inspector of building associations was present, and among other things gave us some idea of the report which building associations are expected to make to his department annually, and judging from the nature of the report required there will not be much carelessness or dishonesty practiced that will not be readily brought to light.

"The League membership has increased handsomely, there now being 136 members of the league. It has been ascertained that the whole number of active building associations in the state are about 750, and that during the last year these have handled about $60,000,000. The membership in the state amounts to about 225,000, which is no small army of savings investors.

"We were somewhat surprised to find many of the delegates wanting to come to Toledo with the next annual meeting, but under an arrangement that Toledo would not ask for it, the next annual meeting of the league goes to Cleveland. The Toledo associations that were represented at Cincinnati were the Home, by its President Gilbert Canniff, the Phœnix of the East Side by its attorney, L. G. Richardson, and the People's by your humble servant.

"The old officers of the league were elected unanimously. Mr. A. A. Winters of Dayton, President; Hon. Henry Stueve, of Cincinnati, First Vice President; Harry M. Farnsworth, of Cleveland, Second Vice President; E. R. Hiett, of Toledo, Secretary, and L. M. Studevant, of Sidney, Treasurer. The new executive committee to be appointed by President Winters will probably be the same as the old executive committee, with one exception. A committee was appointed to co-operate with other state leagues in forming a national league to hold a convention during the world's fair in Chicago.

"The entertainment of the occasion consisted of a banquet at one of Cincinnati's famous gardens, on Wednesday night, and on Thursday afternoon a pleasure excursion ten miles up the river from Cincinnati, to Coney Island, which is a beautiful place and justly considered one of Cincinnati's most famous resorts."

The Central Doing Business.

The directors of the Central Building and Loan association met last evening.

Loans to the amount of $1,200, were acted upon favorably. This was the first meeting of any importance held since the organization of the association.

The books are now open for business, and the beginning is most satisfactory to the management. Over forty-five new members have been enrolled and the receipts thus far will more than meet the loans. New stock is being subscribed every day.

HISTORICAL FAL LACIES.

Most of Them Completely Exploded, But Some Still Survive.

Less than a century ago, in the time when men had not penetrated so deeply into the study of nature, there was a great deal of poetry and romance connected with animal life that had been slowly but surely driven out as the study advanced.

Travelers returning from unexplored regions told strange and incredible stories about the wonderful wild animals they had encountered; but investigation has rent asunder these fanciful tales and left only cold facts in their places.

I am the owner of a natural history written by Sir Riley and published about the year 1798. It is a quaint old book and its yellow leaves and odd type furnish the reader with a number of strange accounts. Among others may be found something like the following: "The digestive apparatus of the ostrich is said to be very strong indeed, that bird not only being able to digest such things as stones, bits of glass and iron, but it is even said that it makes a good meal of a bed of live coals."

We laugh at such a statement, but no doubt at the time of publication it was stated for a fact.

What right have we to laugh? It is not long since almost every one believed the porcupine capable of shooting its quils like arrows, and regarded it an animal well able to defend itself against almost every foe, instead of the quiet inoffensive little creature that curls itself in a ball at the first approach of an enemy, trusting solely to its spine-covered skin for protection?

Men who have lived only a short time before us did not question but what the pretty, graceful swallows that skimmed so lightly o'er the blue waters in summer buried themselves in the mud at the bottom of our rivers and ponds when the season was over to await the return of spring.

It has been but a short time since an investigation has shown that the supposed happy family made up of the prairie dog, the burrowing owl and the rattlesnake is not only not a happy family, but does not exist at all. Our first idea was that these three animals, of such different habits, lived in perfect harmony, like the so-called happy families of the modern circus; but our faith in this belief is somewhat shaken by the following, which may be found in Wood's "Natural History." According to popular belief, these three creatures live very harmoniously together, but observation has shown that the snake and the owl are interlopers, living in the burrow because the poor owner can not turn them out, and finding an easy subsistence on the young prairie dogs.

We are satisfied with this for a time, but judge the astonishment created when Elliott Cones, in one of his latest writings, makes the following statement in speaking of the burrowing owl: "I have found colonies in Kansas and other states, in all cases occupying the deserted burrows of the quadrupeds, and living in common with them as usually supposed."

Naturalists are now telling us that the opossum does not play possum, but is merely paralyzed with fear for the fine being; articles are published every day in our ornithological papers and magazines which go to prove that owls can see equally as well by day as by night. It is still an undecided question whether snakes "charm" their prey or not. In the western backwoods these old stories are still believed in; the ignorant classes cling with fondness to them, and will not learn anything different, and down in our own hearts do we not all of us cling to them, more or less? Do we not hate to give them up, and is it not with a little regret that we are forced to acknowledge that the porcupine does not shoot his quills, that the bird of paradise really has feet and legs, and that our national bird, the white-headed eagle, is far from the noble bird we once thought him to be?—Forest and Stream.

Pacific Mail and Rock Island were especially weak, declining ¾ per cent. After the first few sales the market strengthened. Sugar was especially strong and advance from 83¾@84¼c. Northern Pacific preferred, advanced 1 per cent. Rock Island regained its early loss and Burlington and Atchison advanced ⅝c. The remainder of the list in most cases were ⅛@¼ per cent higher at 10:30 than they closed last night. In the half hour to 11 o'clock there was a renewed selling under which a part of the early advance was lost. The second hour to midday developed considerable strength. Sugar further advanced to 85¾c. At noon the market was ⅛ to 1 per cent higher than it closed yesterday.

At the present writing the market is quiet but steady. The sales to noon aggregated 175,000 shares.

AN ANSWERED PRAYER.

"Now I lay me down to sleep,"
Lisped the prattling baby tongue,
"I pray the Lord my soul to keep."
Slow the words came one by one.

"If I should die before I wake,"
Why that start the mother gave?
"I pray the Lord my soul to take,
And this"—"O Father, thou must save!"

Still the tiny hands are clasped,
But the once bright eyes are dim,
O'er the face death's pallor cast,
Tells the babe has gone to him.

Yet the mother wildly cries
To the all-wise ruling One;
Little thinking, midst her sighs,
She had taught, "Thy will be done."

GOING TO THE HEAD.

Swiftly past the rueful class,
With a skipping tread,
Little Mary Ellen's
Going to the head.

Roughly straying yellow locks,
Ribbon lost at play,
But she is the one who spelled
The word the proper way.

Apron strings that all untied
Switch the dusty floor,—
Little unkempt, heedless maid,
Her victory counts the more.

Quality is in oneself,
After all is said,—
Little Mary Ellen's
Going to the head. —Table Talk.

THE STATUE.

A traveler came to a certain great city, and as he entered through one of its wide gates a passer-by spoke to him.

"Welcome, sir," said the citizen. "I saw by your dress that you were a stranger and make bold to address you."

"Your welcome is most courteous," answered the traveler, "and I thank you for it."

"You must not fail to see the statue in our market place," said the citizen. "We take great pride in it, and for my part I consider myself fortunate in being one of the community that owns so fine a work of art and so grand a memorial."

"I shall certainly take pains to see it," answered the traveler, bowing to the citizen as he passed on.

So when the traveler had made his way into the city he paused for a moment, wondering in which direction the market-place lay. As he stood in doubt, another citizen presented himself, hat in hand.

"You seem unfamiliar with our city," said the new-comer, politely. "If you are seeking the market place I can easily direct you to it."

"You are right in your supposition," said the traveler.

"Naturally," said the citizen smiling. "All the world comes to see our great statue; and I have pointed out the way to many. It would be strange if I did not know it, for it was I who proposed the setting up of the statue in the market-place. I am fortunate enough to be one of the town council."

"My respects to you," said the traveler, saluting him.

"Follow this straight course," said the councilman, pointing, "and ask again when you come to the open park.

Bidding the citizen good-day, the traveler proceeded on his way; nor did he pause until he had come to the park. Then, as he had been instructed to do, he made further inquiry at the door of a little shop.

"Yes, indeed, I can tell you," said the woman who came to the door, "for it was my husband who designed the pedestal for it. John!—another stranger to see the statue."

"In a moment," said her husband, from the back of the shop. "How do you do, sir?" he asked, as he greeted the traveler. "Your face seems to me a familiar one. Where have I seen you? Never been here before! Ah, I must have been mistaken. A chance resemblance, no doubt! Turn to the right, and follow this wall, and you will soon reach the statue, for which I designed the pedestal, as the good people of this town will tell you."

The traveler withdrew, and walked leisurely along by the wall. At the first corner he met a workingman who was carving a bit of stonework on the fence-post.

"A stranger, sir!" inquired the workman, as the traveler approached. "To see the statue, no doubt?"

"Yes," said the traveler.

"A good bit of work, and well worth your time. Many's the long day I have worked over it. I carved the block, and never did a better bit of work! Turn to the left—but, wait! Here is a man who can show you the way, Henry!"

As he spoke a man who was driving a heavy wagon drew up near the sidewalk.

"Can you show this gentleman the way to the statue?"

"Can I—when you know well enough that I drew the statue to its place with this very horse and wagon. Come, my friend, follow me. Or, better still, get up on my wagon and I'll take you there. You're a lighter load than that bit of hewed stone, I warrant you!"

So the traveler mounted upon the wagon, and was soon at the market-place, and stood before the statue itself.

As he gazed up at it, another citizen addressed him:

"Admiring the statue, eh? Well, it's a noble bit of art, and a credit to the place. Every stranger says so."

"It seems well done and well kept," replied the traveler, quietly.

"Well kept! To be sure it is well kept! Would the council of the town have me here if I didn't attend to my duty? Perhaps you don't know that I'm the custodian of this work of art? No? Well, I am. Yes, you see before you the statue-keeper. It's a great responsibility; but there, there!—the townspeople don't complain, so I suppose my work is not so badly done."

"Who is it?" asked the traveler.

"O, I never thought to ask," said the man, unconcernedly. "Maybe I've heard the name; no doubt I have. But I've forgotten it long since."

The traveler thanked the fellow and gave him a silver coin. Then he departed from out the city. But as he went through the gate in the city wall, there was a boy playing marbles near by, for now the school-hours were over. And as the traveler passed him, the boy looked to see whose shadow fell upon the wall; and then the boy sprang to his feet, and said: "See! See! There is the man whose statue stands in the market-place!"

And so it was; but none else in the city knew anything beyond their stone image of the man.

"You were asleep and dreaming in the sun!" the people said, when the boy told his story. And as the traveler never came again, even the boy himself began as he grew older to think it was a dream, so real seemed the statue, compared to his faint memory of the great one in whose honor it stood aloft.—August St. Nicholas.

BE COURTEOUS.

This story may be new to some of our readers. There are few among them who will not often have opportunity to deserve a pincushion.

A young commercial traveler was riding on the cars in the vicinity of Grand Rapids. There were few people riding in the same coach with him, but he noticed a very old lady, who seemed to have passed the allotted span of life, and a younger woman, tired and travel-stained, and accompanied by two peevish, restless little ones, who were never still for a moment.

The old lady was unattended and sat by herself, seeming oblivious of all her surroundings. The mother, with her children, occupied double seats. She looked worn out with fatigue. The young man sat comfortably in the rear of the coach and read or amused himself with his thoughts.

But when an opportunity came for him to be of service, he improved it.

He closed the window for the old lady, who feebly thanked him. He gave the tiresome children some picture cards to keep them out of mischief. He told them stories and gave them innumerable drinks of water from the tank near by, while their tired mother caught a nap. He divided an orange between them and prepared another for the old lady, who declared it tasted cool and grateful.

Before they reached the station where the young man was to leave the train, and while he was getting his satchel down, the old lady beckoned him to her.

"My son," she said, in a quivering voice, "I live at Grand Rapids; perhaps you have heard of me? I am the old lady who sent three hundred pincushions out to the Soldiers' Home there. I am now eighty-three years old and all I do now is to make pincushions and give them away to deserving people. Young man, I have watched you, and here is your pincushion."

It was a homely little round of pasteboard, but that young man declares he will never part with it as long as he lives. —Selected.

LAST DAY OF THIS EARTH.

Fanciful Sketch of the End of All Things.

The earth had been inhabited for about 22,000,000 years. The primordial age had taken not less than 10,000,000 years to go through its several phases.

The primary age had occupied more than 6,000,000; the secondary age, 2,300,000 years; the tertiary age 500,000 years; the primitive human age, the time of national divisions, of barbarism and of militarism had filled about 300,000 years, and the sixth age, that of intellectual humanity, had reigned for nearly 2,000,000 years.

During that long succession of ages the earth had grown older and the sun colder, and, in consequence the geographical aspect of the globe had metamorphosed itself. The water of the ocean had slowly penetrated through the earth's crust; the sea was contracted to a fourth of its area in the early human period; warm valleys and equatorial regions alone were habitable.

All the rest was frozen. From century to century humanity had attained forms of exquisite beauty and no longer worked materially.

A network of electricity covered the globe, producing at will all that was needed. It was then a united race, entirely different from the rude and heterogeneous races that had characterized the first period.

About the year 2,200,000 after Jesus Christ the last great focus of human civilization shone in the center or equatorial Africa, in the brilliant city of Suntown, which had already several times been raised again from its ashes. The sites where Paris, London, Vienna and New York had stood were then buried beneath the ice.

The capital of this aristocratic republic had attained the last limits of a luxurious and voluptuous civilization. Wives no longer became mothers except by accident; they no longer desired the inconvenience of maternity, and reigned in all the splendor of their unblemished beauty.

Life had been, if not dried up at its source, at least rendered irremediably unfruitful. No young women remained; the soil, too, was sterilized, and the generation saw the end approaching.

In this dilema an aerial flotilla was constructed, and all the strong men started on a voyage of investigation of the equatorial zone, to see whether any isolated human groups still existed. The entire earth had almost disappeared beneath snow and ice, and already half the members of the expedition had died of hunger and cold, when the survivors discovered a human settlement on the banks of an unfrozen river.

They were received as saviors by men who believed themselves the only survivors of terrestrial humanity, looking on with despair at the last days of the world.

The river on whose banks they were camped was the once famous Amazon.

The last woman of the community was already dead, the wine and the grain were extinct, and the men subsisted solely on fish.

On hearing of this the guests were in despair; their country was still wealthy, science rendered them independent of soil and natural temperature, and the leader of the party exclaimed:

"We came in search of female associates, and had we found but one single wife all the riches of our land would have been hers."

Some time before these events happened in Africa and America the island of Ceylon, now attached to Asia, was the last refuge of the human in Asia; and there in this former eartnly paradise, not far from the equator, at the foot of Adam's peak, dwelt the women, sole heiresses of the last unextinguished families.

The male sex had completely disappeared. The youngest of the females, little Eva, was 3 years old. The decline of natural forces had brought about a decline of human forces, and with it the decline of inventions and usages which had formally seemed indispensable.

Crossing the Pacific ocean our adventurers observed that Ceylon was freer from ice than other regions, and approaching it they saw to their joy a group of five women in mourning, the then last survivors of the race in Asia. They alighted, told the object of their explorations and had no difficulty in convincing the fair Asiatics.

Their despair disappeared like a mist; and a few hours after the arrival of the aeronauts the five nuns had become the most elegant of women. But Ceylon was more desolate than Suntown; provisions were scarce, and the whole party, taking the women with them, returned to their African home.

Arrived there, they found that the friends and relatives they had left behind were all dead or dying from an epidemic; the cold, too, was increasing; and, although they kept up fires and shut off all communication with the outer air, death was busy among them, until, at the end of a few weeks, all had passed away save only the youngest woman, Eva, her lover Omegar, who saw without delusion the inevitable fate which awaited them, well knowing that no other spring would ever bloom on earth.

However, the sky cleared, and the young couple, taking all the provisions available, rose in their aerial boat to judge of the last invasions of the snow, and saw that the whole city was buried.

They then started for the Nile valley, and on reaching it saw with delight that the great pyramid was still standing, the last evidence on earth of the work of man's hands.

There they found shelter among the ruins, and, folded in each other's arms, took their last look at earth, and murmuring eternal love to each other they sunk into the sleep of death.

And the snow continued to fall, as a fine powder, on the face of the earth.

And the earth continued to revolve on its axis and to float through the immensity of space.

And the sun continued to shine, but with a reddish and barren light, and stars continued to scintillate in the immensity of the heavens.

And the infinite universe continued to exist, with its billions of living or extinct planets.

And in all the worlds peopled with the joys of life love continued to bloom beneath the smiling glance of the eternal.—Ex.

Ladies Think— then Act.

That

Wolff's ACME Blacking

IS CHEAPER than any other dressing at any price, be it 5 cents, 10 cents, or 25 cents, you can convince yourself by wearing one shoe dressed with Acme Blacking and the other shoe dressed with whatever happens to be your favorite dressing. While Acme Blacking will endure a month through snow or rain, and can, if the shoe is soiled, be washed clean, the other dressing will not last a single day in wet weather.

Your shoes will look better, last longer and be more comfortable if dressed with Wolff's Acme Blacking.

THE POSITIVE CURE.

ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York.

No Money Required of Responsible Parties to Commence Treatment.

DR. FRANCE,

Formerly of New York, now of the France Medical and Surgical Institute, Columbus, Ohio, by request of many friends and patients, has decided to visit

TOLEDO, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 2d.

Consultation and Examination Free and Strictly Confidential in the Private Parlor of the Burnett House, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., one day only.

The France Medical and Surgical Institute of Columbus, Ohio, is the only Medical Institute in the state incorporated with a capital of $300,000.

FRANCE MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE,

38 & 40 W. Gay St., one block N. of State House, Columbus, O. Incorporated, 1886. Capital, $300,000.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, of New York, the well known and successful Specialists in Chronic Diseases and Diseases of the Eye and Ear, on account of their large practice in Ohio, have established the FRANCE MEDICAL INSTITUTE, where all forms of Chronic, Nervous and Private Diseases will be successfully treated on the most Scientific principles. They are ably assisted by a full corps of eminent Physicians and Surgeons, each one being a well known specialist in his profession

CANCER positively cured without pain or use of the knife, by a new method.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.—DR. FRANCE, after years of experience, has discovered the greatest cure known for all diseases peculiar to the sex. Female diseases positively cured by the new remedy, OLIVE BLOSSOM. The cure is effected by home treatment. Entirely harmless and easily applied. Consultation Free and Strictly Confidential. Correspondence promptly answered.

YOUNG MEN—Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, may call with confidence.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, after years of experience, have discovered the greatest cure known for weakness in the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, lassitude, confusion of ideas, palpitation of the heart, timidity, trembling, dimness of sight, or giddiness, diseases of the head, throat, nose, or skin, affections of the liver, lungs, stomach, or bowels—those terrible disorders arising from the indiscretion of youth—and secret practices, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible. Take one candid thought before it is too late. A week or month may place your case beyond the reach of hope. Our method of treatment will speedily and permanently cure the most obstinate case, and absolutely restore perfect manhood.

TO MIDDLE-AGED MEN.—There are many from the age of 30 to 60 who are troubled with frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight burning or smarting sensation, weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examination of the urinary deposits, a ropy sediment will be found, or the color will be a thin or milkish hue. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is a second stage of seminal weakness. We will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.—We have a special department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Important cases (and we get few which have not baffled the skill of all the home physicians) have the benefit of a full council of skilled specialists. In treatment of diseases peculiar to females, our success has been marked, over two-thirds of our patients being ladies, old, young, married, single, rich and poor. Our method is entirely free from objectionable features of the general practitioner, namely, "Local treatment." We rely upon constitutional remedies, constitutional and local, as the case demands, and instruct ladies how to treat themselves.

MARRIAGE.—Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualification speedily restored.

PRIVATE DISEASES.—Blood Poison, Venereal Taint, Ulcers, Stricture, Seminal Emissions, Loss of Sexual Power, Weakness of Sexual Organs, Want of Desire in Male or Female, whether from imprudent habits of youth or sexual habits of mature years, or any cause that debilitates the sexual functions, speedily and permanently cured. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Absolute cures guaranteed. Medicines sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.

EPILEPSY, OR FITS.—Positively cured by a new and never-failing method. Testimonials furnished.

FREE EXAMINATION OF THE URINE.—Each person applying for medical treatment should send or bring from 2 to 4 ounces of urine (that passed first in the morning preferred), which will receive a careful chemical and microscopical examination, and if requested a written analysis will be given.

Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders, who keep trifling with them month after month, giving poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately. Delays are dangerous.

WONDERFUL CURES Perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail or express, but where possible, personal consultation is preferred. Curable cases guaranteed. No risks incurred.

Best Cases and correspondence confidential. Treatment sent C. O. D. to any part of U. S. List of 130 questions free. Address, with postage, DR. FRANCE, Nos. 38 and 40 W. Gay St., Columbus, O.
